MLA Wants Museums in Waterfront Complex

World's Most Beautiful Harbor?

By JACK FRY

Victoria MLA J. Donald Smith unfolded a proposal yesterday for a Victoria waterfront complex which would house a provincial museum, a maritime museum, the provincial archives and the old RCMP vessel St. Roch which traversed the Northwest Passage.

Speaking to the legislature, he said the CPR property northwest of the legislature would be the logical location for such a development which, coupled with improvement of the Causeway area, would make the Inner Harbor "the most beautiful harbor in the world."

He disagreed with a suggestion by Works Minister

Chant that the museum be built in Beacon Hill Park. "I would certainly recommend against considering our very lovely Beacon Hill Park for this museum," said Mr. Smith.

A museum in the park would "mar the beauty" of the park, he added.

The waterfront museum could be completed by 1967, in time for the Confederation

centenary. One of its first exhibits should be the historic St. Roch.

The boat now in Vancouver where it is "deteriorating year after year," and Vancouver city council apparently is disinterested in preserving it, said the Social MLAs.

There would be plenty of space for parking near the CPR site, and a bridge probably will be built between

James Bay and Victoria West sometime in the future making it easier to reach the new waterfront museum complex, Mr. Smith said.

The latest proposal for providing the B.C. Maritime Museum in Esquimalt with larger, downtown quarters, is for a move into the old law courts building in Bastion Square. This plan is under active consideration.

On Island

By TERRY HAMMOND

A provincial school for retarded children will be built on the grounds of the former Colquitz mental hospital, Health Minister Martin announced yesterday.

He made the announcement in a speech to the legislature and elaborated later in an interview.

The school will be patterned on Woodlands, the provincial home for the retarded in New Westminster.

Mr. Martin said planning for the institution will start as soon as the government's mental hospitals design group has completed plans for the mental health centre to be built adjacent to Royal Jubilee Hospital.

HEAVY FIRE
The minister's announcement came at a time when his department is under heavy fire for having failed to keep pace with the need for accommodation of the mentally retarded.

He said the Colquitz home would be smaller than the 1,400-bed Woodlands home but couldn't say how much smaller.

Snake Pit Heart Warmer

Health Minister Martin yesterday took one of Social Credit's famous "second looks," warning the heart of an opposition member.

In 1958 Leo Nimsick (NDP—Cranbrook) borrowed the title from a once-famous book on insane asylum life and branded the Colquitz mental home a "snake pit." Yesterday Mr. Martin told the legislature how happy he was to have finally closed the Colquitz institution.

Why happy? Because it was a real "snake pit."

Canada in Fight Mike Tells U.S.

NEW YORK (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson Wednesday night told a 1,200-member New York audience — all of them concerned with mental health — that important developments are occurring in Canada in the fight against retardation. "We, like you, are spurred by the prospect of achieving 95-per-cent success in giving the retarded, useful community lives," Pearson was speaking to the annual awards dinner of the Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., Foundation, an organization established in 1946 to help in the battle against mental retardation.

He referred to the programs being undertaken by the 10 provincial associations for retarded children and the plans of each province to undertake a major research project for Canada's Centenary. The volunteers would be assisted by governments, industry, universities and foundations.

Tories Reject John D Plea For Tax Cuts

Mothers Fear Heathman

VERNON (CP) — Mrs. Warren McIntyre, mother of three, launched a petition Wednesday protesting the proposed release of convicted child-slayer Charles Heathman from Esquimalt. She said responses to the petition have been "almost 100 per cent" and a special door-to-door canvass for signatures is planned tonight. "Most of the women I've spoken to... are genuinely concerned about the safety of their children," she said.

French Sign With Reds

PARIS (AP) — France has made another stride toward increased trade with the Communist world by signing a pact with Poland and reporting another in the making for the Soviet Union.

Both agreements would benefit French exports but officials said the goal — to which Poland and the Soviet Union agree — is an increase of two-way trade.

FOUR YEARS
No sooner had French and Polish officials toasted their signatures Wednesday at a special luncheon than Italy announced that it, too, was boosting trade with the Soviet Union. The French-Polish pact calls for the sale of 400,000 to 600,000 tons of French grain.

OTTAWA (CP) — The Progressive Conservatives wound up their annual convention Wednesday after a day-long debate on party policy during which they turned their back on tax reductions.

Only a handful of the 3,353 persons who registered for the 2½-day gathering were on hand in the 775-seat convention hall for the adjournment.

FLOOR REVOLT
But earlier in the day sparks erupted when George Nowlan, former finance minister, led a revolt from the floor against a suggestion that the party go on record as advocating tax cuts.

Mr. Nowlan and two other former cabinet ministers spearheaded a successful attack on tax-cut planks submitted to the party's annual meeting by the resolutions committee.

SHOW OF HANDS
The committee's spokesman, E. A. Goodman, Toronto, finally accepted a set of Nowlan changes and declared another, proposed by Senator Wallace McCutcheon, former trade minister, adopted after a show-of-hands vote.

The action came the day after party leader John Diefenbaker issued a plea for tax cuts in a major address to the convention.

Speaking of future policy, Mr. Diefenbaker told the convention Tuesday the party "should pursue the expansion of development."

"HAVE TO ACT"
"Today that expansion requires reductions of taxation because of what is happening in the United States. If the Johnson administration reduces taxes, we will have to take action in that regard. Otherwise we will not be competitive."

His argument was debated on directly in the refereed on the proposed tax-cut program by proposed economist Robert Clarke who argued U.S. cuts would not make American manufacturers more competitive with Canadian.

While the party's economic platform was being debated, Canada," he said in a speech to the Vancouver Natural History Society.

But there were no national parks containing a section of the original western Prairies, the Pacific Coastal Range, Northern Ontario or the Lake Superior shoreline.

"The Yukon and Northwest Territories have magnificent untouched areas that should be preserved, and in Quebec there are several types of land that are unique and expressive of Canada."

The parks system was unbalanced, with spacious western parks far from large centres of population and the six-square-mile Pointe Pelée National Park, on Lake Erie, in Canada's most densely populated area.

Cypriots Fight Again

NICOSIA (Reuters) — Turkish Cypriot officials reported renewed fighting Wednesday in the village of Kitima, near Paphos, resulting in the death of one Greek Cypriot.

The officials said two Turkish and two Greek Cypriots were wounded in the clash before British troops moved into the area.

A British military spokesman said a neutral zone had been set up in the village but the situation there was still "very, very tense."

SOME HOSTAGES
Unconfirmed reports reaching troops headquarters here said 20 Turkish and 15 Greek Cypriots were reported missing or taken hostage Wednesday.

The apparent violation of the cease-fire agreement arranged Christmas Eve came as United States women and children were evacuated from this tense Mediterranean island.

On another front, developments were awaited on a proposed NATO peace-keeping force for the divided republic.

Third Yard Shut Today

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

Further talks are to be held today in Vancouver in hopes of ending the B.C. shipyard strike, which will spread to Burrard Drydock during the day.

Representatives of the shipyards and 22 unions met in Vancouver all day yesterday with deputy labor minister William Sanda. A further meeting was scheduled for 3 p.m. today.

600 AT BURRARD
Pickets were expected to be set up at Burrard at 7 a.m., when 600 Burrard employees were to join 1,400 already on strike at VMD and Yarrows (See picture, Page 18.)

The strike at the Victoria yards began at 7 a.m. yesterday. William Stewart of the Marine Workers and Boiler-makers Industrial Union (I.C.L.) said in Vancouver: "It looks as if we'll be out in the morning at Burrard."

Mr. Sanda said there had been no specific agreement at yesterday's meeting but, "I have a feeling that progress has been achieved today."

Court Believes Blind Father, Not Policemen

CALGARY (CP) — A 64-year-old blind man who helped his two sons eject a policeman from their home Aug. 12 had his $50 fine for assault quashed by the Alberta Supreme Court appeals division Wednesday.

Marshall Servonnet's sons, Marshall Joseph and Marcelle, had three-month sentences for assault reduced to three weeks they had spent in custody.

Mr. Justice M. M. Porter, claiming all three charges should be quashed, dissented from the majority decision by two other justices.

He said the policeman, Constable Wilf Kruger "entered the home without a warrant and thus had no right being there."

"We must uphold a man's right to privacy in his own home," he said, adding the incident was no credit to anyone, "especially the police."

UNIMPRESSED
"I'm unimpressed by a member of the Calgary police force complaining of being beaten by a blind man."

The incident began with a $2 jaywalking ticket to Joseph, who refused to give his name to the policeman, Constable C. Gordine, and went into his home. Gordine called for help; when Kruger arrived, they followed and the fight ensued. Each side said the other started the fight.

Surgical Clamp Case

Police Seek Hospital-Death Evidence

TORONTO (CP) — Police of the Metropolitan Toronto homicide squad began gathering evidence Wednesday for a coronor's inquest into the death of a woman in hospital here, last November 18, days after an operation. An autopsy had revealed a surgical clamp in her abdomen.

Coroner Dr. Gerald Blanchet, ordered by Ontario Attorney-General Fred Cram to hold the inquest, said the police were called in because of their interview methods. It did not suggest foul play.

ATTORNEY GENERAL
The attorney general ordered the inquest into the death of Patricia Morgan, 32, a cancer patient, in Toronto East General Hospital after a public demand for it by Dr. Morton Shulman, chief coronor, who has been pushing investigations into deaths in hospitals here.

Dr. Shulman, appointed last year, has charged interference by members of the medical profession and his government supporters and has demanded a public inquiry into the coronor's inquest system.

Miss Morgan's death came to light last week after a sister asked Dr. Shulman about it. The hospital's board of governors also has launched an investigation into her death and operating-room procedures.

Dr. Morton disclosed that the surgical instrument had been left in the woman's abdomen after one doctor had started to operate on her, had been called away and was replaced by another surgeon.

DR. KENNETH A. BROWN, 45, who started the operation, said he has not been permitted to use facilities of the East General Hospital since the operation.

Dr. Brown said he had operated on Miss Morgan three months earlier to remove a cancerous condition in her stomach and intestines and performed the Oct. 18 operation for a "second look."

He said he started the operation but did not finish it. He said he was interrupted by a senior official of the hospital and the operation was completed by another doctor. The name of the second doctor has not been disclosed.

THERE HAS BEEN NO PUBLIC explanation of the interruption. Dr. Shulman said he understood the autopsy showed no cancer in the body, though the death certificate signed by Dr.

Brown gave cancer of the stomach and acute intestinal obstruction as the cause of death.

Dr. Shulman said Dr. Stewart Perry, the hospital pathologist who conducted the autopsy, told him the obstruction referred to in his report was the clamp.

The instrument is a forceps that doubles as a clamp.

Dr. Brown said he had not been shown a copy of the autopsy report and had made out the death certificate as accurately as he could on the basis of information available to him.

Dr. Shulman said the death had not been reported to him officially and Dr. H. B. Cotnam, supervising coroner for Ontario, said "it looks as if this was a reportable death and someone is certainly at fault in not reporting it."

Murder Solved

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police said Wednesday the hanging of William Margach, 46, in his jail cell while awaiting trial in Cranbrook on an indecent assault charge, has ended their investigation of a woman's murder here. Margach had been sought in the strangling death of Ruth Ella Dean in 1959.

Alabama Still Defiant

NOTASULGA, Ala. (UPI)—The young mayor of this farm town stood in a segregated schoolhouse door yesterday flanked by Gov. George Wallace's state troopers and turned away six frightened Negro students that a federal judge had ordered admitted. The incident presented President Johnson with his first school desegregation crisis, and was reminiscent of Wallace's attempt to block desegregation of the University of Alabama. Federal troops were used to force the integration of the university. Six other Negro students were admitted yesterday to a previously segregated school in nearby Shorter without violence, although about half of the white student body stayed home. Notasulga mayor James Res, 32, declared that his action in rejecting the negroes had nothing to do with "segregation, integration or anything of that nature." The mayor said the negroes were rejected because the school was overcrowded and to accept them would result in a violation of fire and safety ordinances—which were passed last night. Dr. Martin Luther King, the South's top integration leader, sent a telegram to President Johnson protesting the rejection of the negro students and declaring that the "Governor of Alabama and local officials in Notasulga... have contributed to the breakdown of law and order in our nation by their blatant defiance of the federal courts."

Spying on Neighbors?

VANCOUVER (CP)—Reports that a credit-rating bureau has offered to pay householders to spy on their neighbors will be investigated by the B.C. Federation of Labor and Vancouver and District Labor Council. Council delegates say one bureau gives member-companies a character analysis in addition to a credit rating on people and one company was offering 60 cents for each form giving information on neighbors.

United Church, Labor Hit Medicare Plan

TORONTO (CP)—Public hearings of opinions about Ontario's medical insurance plan closed Wednesday with a double-barrelled bang as both the United Church of Canada and the Ontario Federation of Labor fired critical volleys at the draft legislation.

Both groups urged the government-appointed inquiry in separate briefs to aim for a state-run, universal program of comprehensive medical care on the Saskatchewan pattern. The United Church brief, presented by its Board of Evangelism and Social Service, drew attention to the fact that the church's general council has commended the government-run Saskatchewan program as a model.

News in Brief

ROME (AP)—Life returned to normal in Italy late yesterday with the end of a strike by the country's 1,000,000 state employees.

The 24-hour walkout ended last night. Train service started up again. Telegraph and telephone service resumed. School teachers and postal workers prepared to go back to work.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI)—Crises in Cyprus, Malaysia, Africa and Kashmir caused Secretary General Thant to return to headquarters here. With Cypriot president Archbishop Makarios insisting on security council sanction for any peace-keeping operation in the Greek-Turkish conflict, the Cyprus situation was considered the most explosive.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House has tentatively approved without major change the civil rights bill's controversial public accommodations section guaranteeing free access to most private business establishments. A last-ditch Southern proposal to kill the entire provision went down in defeat, 144 to 63.

WASHINGTON (AP)—General-firing rockets were sent aloft Tuesday night from Fort Churchill, Man., and Wallops Island, Va., to take readings on a seasonal phenomenon in the upper atmosphere called the "warming trend."

Space scientists here said the temperature shift at high altitudes is attributed to unexplained actions of the sun.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The defence of Byron De La Beckwith, accused of killing Negro leader Medgar Evers, suffered a blow when a key witness failed to qualify as a fingerprint expert.

C. E. Brooks attacked the heart of the state's case against Beckwith — a fresh print of Beckwith's right index finger found on the rifle which allegedly killed the Negro leader. However the court decided that Brooks was not an expert.

The Great Discovery of the Age

Today's growing interest in spiritual healing has naturally caused many to wonder what Christian Science is and how it heals.

Here's a fine opportunity to gain firsthand information about this religion which teaches that the spiritual laws of God can be understood and applied to human problems of every kind.

You are cordially invited to hear for yourself how prayer, based on spiritual understanding of God, heals sickness, as well as sin and limitation.

Obstacles Ahead

THE PROGRESSIVE Conservative Party's strong vote of confidence in Mr. John Diefenbaker's leadership will be a bitter blow not only to the Liberal administration but also to a small but influential group of men presently occupying positions of authority and responsibility within the Conservative Party's own national organization.

The Liberal Party's concern over the enthusiastic support accorded Mr. Diefenbaker by the overwhelming majority of delegates to the Tory national convention is understandable.

Mr. Pearson's party has long recognized that the former prime minister is the greatest single threat to its political security and is not a foe to be reckoned with lightly.

Though the last election resulted in the defeat of his government it also disturbingly proved to the Liberals that Mr. Diefenbaker had lost none of his ability to catch the public's imagination and imbue millions of voters with his sense of national purpose.

In many ways the Conservative defeat of 1963 was a far greater personal victory for Mr. Diefenbaker than even his unprecedented sweep of the country in 1957, for in 1963, to a large degree, he stood alone, deserted by some of his senior cabinet ministers, undermined by intrigues within his own party, hamstrung by a woefully inadequate political organization, plagued by Washington interference in Canadian national affairs, and all but rejected by the pro-Conservative press of the country.

Yet despite this he led his party almost single-handedly to within an ace of victory. There is little doubt that if he had had the backing of a well-organized national party machine behind him and been given the loyalty of the upper-echelon party officers which he deserved at that time, he would have been prime minister today.

Of the many obstacles which faced him then some have disappeared and others have been overcome.

He is no longer the main target for diatribe utterances by the U.S. State Department; he is again being mentioned favorably by some of the pro-Conservative newspapers who delighted in attacking him in the last election, and many of the policies he and his former government instituted have now either been accepted or re-activated by the present Liberal regime—a move in itself which acknowledges the rightness of the former Tory government's policies and purpose.

Yet for all this there still remain two major obstructions which must be dealt with by the Conservative Party if it is ever again to attain its objective of forming the government of Canada.

The first and largest of these is the schism which exists within the party itself. Despite the great show of support given Mr. Diefenbaker this week it cannot be supposed that the anti-Diefenbaker faction among Eastern Canadian Tories is any the weaker than it was before the convention opened.

If those who have opposed Mr. Diefenbaker's leadership are not now prepared to accept him as wholeheartedly as have the grass-roots delegates from all over Canada but are determined to continue with their dissension and underhanded activities, the result could well be the complete removal of the Conservative Party as an effective political force.

The party organization itself should be aware of this danger, as should those dissidents who profess their loyalty to the party but not to its leader. Any move now to destroy Mr. Diefenbaker from within the party would also result in the destruction of the party itself.

The second obstruction still before the Tories is the lack of an effective national organization. And though brave words have been spoken on and off for long months, little has been done to strengthen or inspire the local branches.

During this week the branch representatives have generously demonstrated their faith in their leader and their confidence in their national headquarters. The time has come when their faith and confidence must be rewarded by the party's executive. If some intangible support is not quickly given them in the job they must do the result for the party could be disastrous.

Inadequate Quarters

IN THE ANNUAL report of his branch, the superintendent of motor vehicles has again brought attention to the inadequacy of the old armory on Menzies Street that serves as headquarters for the registration and licensing of British Columbia's hundreds of thousands of drivers and cars, trucks and motorcycles—numbers growing swiftly every year.

The superintendent has good grounds for complaint about space limitation alone. To say that "the situation becomes just that much more difficult through the congestion of files and the crowding of working areas" is putting it mildly, as the public works department must know, and anyone who has seen the branch's operations.

But there is more warrant than that for replacement of the make-do motor vehicle offices. They are unbefitting to the capital of a prosperous province, and they are also in a poor location from the point of view of public use.

The headquarters of this branch is one building that ought not to be in the centre of the governmental cluster, where parking and stopping space is most at a premium. On the contrary, it surely should be on the periphery of the "government precinct" for which the plans seem to be languishing almost forgotten in some drawer, and should not only be of ample size for its growing role but provide plentiful off-street accommodation for the vehicles of visitors.

Certainly it is not beyond the entitlement of the motorists of this region that their convenience should be one of the first considerations in the design and location of a new building. Indeed it might not be amiss to suggest that not only should the branch have a new home and quickly, but that service to the public—which pays for it—should be improved in another respect, by having the pertinent offices open on Saturdays, even if closed some other day of the week.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax..."

By TOM TAYLOR

I HOPE you are as shocked as I am by the works minister's proposal to plant a new provincial museum building on the summit of Beacon Hill Park. What a beautiful idea!

I am surprised the City Hall hasn't immediately turned its official thumb down, and hard.

Beacon Hill is the one gem that so far has resisted encroachment on its lovely pastoral acres, the finest asset the city possesses and a park area that is a continuing joy.

It is a floral and treed haven of peace and quiet that refreshes the urban spirit.

Yet Mr. Chant would despoil it. What a paucity of imagination.

The works minister says Beacon Hill "offers not much more than a pleasant walk." It offers more even if seemingly he doesn't have eyes to see, but what on earth are parks for but to walk in?

Would he have it turned into a drag-strip? Even as it is, more cars are allowed through the park than is consistent with its atmosphere.

Is this how the Bennett regime would carry out its oft-vaunted plans for the beautification of the capital region? By ruining an existing beautiful park?

One can easily visualize the kind of museum building that would go up. Mr. Chant says its design would not fit harmoniously alongside the Parliament Buildings. It is not difficult then to imagine how obnoxious it would loom on the summit of Beacon Hill.

A concrete monstrously perhaps that would be even more out of place at the highest point of a park.

More would follow. Inevitably there would have to be large, blacktopped car-parking areas, thus robbing the park of valuable stretches of natural beauty. And cars en masse are as unpretty a sight as one can see.

The works minister's un-aesthetic vision goes further. He talks about a tea room, which would be an invitation to yet more despoliation. Other ancillaries would come in turn, and the density of subsequent traffic would completely alter the environment.

The park walker he thinks not of would certainly get the go-by.

Mr. Chant resurrects a legal judgment of 1884 to justify his invasion of the park's original deed of gift. He interprets Judge Matthew Begbie's opinion to suit his purpose.

Precedent, judgments are not inviolable. In any case there was no motor traffic in Judge Begbie's day. Cars, buses and other vehicles of this kind hadn't been invented. The judge voiced his view in relation to the times he lived in.

Doubtless he would rule differently if he could see what now threatens to disturb the peace of Beacon Hill.

I hope the Victoria public rises in wrath and puts forth its voice to Mr. Chant's dismal ideas.

If the minister is greatly concerned about the amenities of the Parliament Buildings area let him tear down that old and outmoded motor license building on Menzies Street and put his museum there.

Better still, let him stay with the site long marked for a museum building, which, in simple in size for all that is required, is more.

At all costs it should be prevented from despoiling the treasured acres of Beacon Hill Park. He will never be forgiven if he carries out his intentions.

Nor will the City Hall if it doesn't fight to keep Beacon Hill as it was meant to be, a god-given gift of nature enhanced by the devoted care of a department which has made this such a precious civic asset.

Masada Exploration

Many Relics Uncovered

A FRAGMENT of another Biblical scroll has been found by explorers of the palace fortress Herod the Great built on Masada rock near the Dead Sea. It is part of chapters four to six of the Book of Genesis.

The expedition led by Professor Yigael Yadin has uncovered many other relics, both of Herod's occupation of Masada, and of the Jewish Zealots who committed mass suicide there when the Romans stormed the great rock in 73 A.D.

Professor Yadin reports that more than 30 inscriptions have been found on shards or complete jars, many telling what was in the jars, whether they were tithed or not, or the standard of ritual cleanliness of food. One gives the name of Akavya, a high priest; another the name of John.

One group bears the name John plus the Greek letter Alpha, which seems to have been a sort of coupon for distribution of the highest quality of oil or wine, and is explicitly mentioned in the Mishna—the collection of traditions, etc., forming the text of Talmud.

Another Mess

In New African Nations

Opportunities for Canada

By HOWARD GREEN

Former Secretary of State for External Affairs

RECENT events in the former British East African colonies of Zanzibar, Tanganyika, Kenya and Uganda give cause for great concern—and these countries are now fellow members of the Commonwealth with Canada.

Zanzibar became independent just a few weeks ago; presumably it was considered to have a government able to conduct the affairs of the new country. However, that government has now been overthrown and the sultan who was formal head of state has fled to Europe.

Possibly the new government will be able to carry on and it has indicated that it wishes to have Zanzibar stay in the Commonwealth. In any event the older members—including Canada—should do quickly whatever they can to help this new country achieve stability.

There are rumors that the Peking government has a finger in this pie and that the Chinese may be planning to use Zanzibar as a base for spreading their influence in Africa. Whether this is so or not the fact remains that the prime minister of China, Chou En-lai, and his foreign minister, Marshal Chen Yi, are now touring Africa. In the course of a visit lasting two months they will call on most of the new nations; obviously they are not doing this for sincere—and determined to lead his people forward into nationhood without revolution.

I have no doubt they are preaching the doctrine of getting rid of European, American and Russian influence—in effect are trying to persuade these African nations to throw in their lot with non-white China. This appeal may well get them some support.

The problem in the other three new nations of the Commonwealth is different. Soldiers in their small defence forces have mutinied—evidently for better pay and to get rid of British officers who had remained after independence.

These officers were there at the request to the governments of the new countries; strangely enough in the case of each government the prime minister at once called on the British government to send troops to put down the mutiny and restore order—and the British complied.

I hope the trouble is over. Tanganyika, Kenya and Uganda are much larger and more important than Zanzibar. Furthermore it was generally believed that once they were all independent they would combine in an East African Federation. Some preliminary steps had been taken; for example they have a common postal and communication service and are setting up a common university.

In all three countries there are capable leaders. About four years ago President Nyerere of Tanganyika visited Ottawa where I had a long conference with him and also heard him speak to the Ottawa Canadian Club; that, of course, was before independence. He had formed an all-racial party with Africans, Asians, and Europeans participating and his record was excellent. He was a very attractive young man—moderate, clear thinking and young man, whom I met at the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference in September of 1962. Within his country there is a kingdom ruled by a young king of about his own age and this makes complications.

Canadians should realize what tremendous difficulties are faced by these African leaders. Most of them are university graduates—as well-trained as our own young men of the same age—but there is so much to do and so few trained people to do it.

No doubt some countries in Africa will go ahead quickly—others will fall—but one thing is certain is that none of them will remain static for long. And the whole world will be affected by what happens in Africa in the next few years.

Canada has a special obligation to the seven Commonwealth countries in Africa. Her efforts to help on that continent are wisely centred on them, although help is also given, and properly so, to some of the countries with French-speaking governments.

She has in Africa a wonderful opportunity to render service to new nations and to help them play their part in bringing about world order.

In this age when there is no longer any distance and when nations must learn to live together such work is all-important.

Election Year

Blowup Feared

By GODFREY HODGSON from Washington

THE United States administration now is seriously afraid of a major row with France and Britain before summer which could do permanent damage to NATO.

The immediate reason is the probable effect on the U.S. Congress and public opinion of British policies on trade with the Communist countries and the French recognition of China.

The fear is that what will seem to Americans selfish and ungrateful defiance of American sensibilities of Britain and France quickly could be fanned by the politics of an election year into a wave of anger worse than that aroused by the Suez action.

It already is inevitable that American objections to Britain's trading with Cuba and granting long-term credit for trade with Russia will be put in the prime minister as forcefully as possible when he meets President Johnson here on Feb. 12.

The state department is afraid the damage may be done by then.

The administration regards French recognition of Peking as in itself the more damaging defiance of American wishes. Washington expects the French action to be a setback to the whole American system for containing China militarily and diplomatically in the Far East.

It is feared that Japan, where Dean Rusk flew recently, might follow suit. And France's former African colonies recognize China, the admission of China to the United Nations could perhaps not be prevented—though officials stress that this is not a foregone conclusion.

President Johnson said France's decision to recognize China was a matter of great concern throughout the world.

Cuba is an even more emotional issue in America than China. Rusk went out of his way to condemn trade with Cuba in a recent speech. In the context of Cuban subversion and infiltration in Latin America.

There is no doubt that the Panama crisis, in which there is some evidence of Cuban involvement, has strengthened the American determination, if possible, to prevent Britain and other European countries from helping Cuba economically.

Underneath the American objections to British policy, officials concede, there lies a fundamental difference of view on how to deal with Communism. To Britain, Americans believe, a far Communist is half a bourgeois.

American experts lay stress on what they believe, as the Central Intelligence Agency recently argued in its estimate of the Russian growth rate, to be the critical dilemma for the Russian leadership: should their limited resources go into investment in fertilizers for agriculture, or be used for the accretions of great power?

Officials earnestly insist that quite apart from this difference of broad strategy, Britain should realize how strongly the Americans object to trade with Cuba in particular. Emotionally, Cuba is the most explosive word in politics.

Ottawa Offbeat

Someone To Watch

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

DOWN in the old Confederation Building which is the working headquarters of the government's money-men, Finance Minister Walter Gordon and his hand-picked crew of tax-and-spend experts are getting down to what the capital knows as the "crunch" stage of the budget preparation.

And if they aren't looking over their shoulder for New Democratic Deputy Douglas Fisher, or have posted a guard at the door—they should have.

For like him or not—and even he would admit that some people definitely don't—you've got to hand the fast-rising Fisher his due as probably the most effective MP in all three "Splinter Groups," NDP, Social and Creditors, of the Opposition.

This isn't merely a personal opinion, but rather the studied assessment of those hard-boiled old pros who ought to know—that little band of Liberal cabinet ministers, usually led by Transport Minister J. W. Pickens, who do the government's political fighting in the continuous party war in the Commons.

Except for deadly old foe-man, Conservative leader John Diefenbaker, nobody in the Commons commands more grudging respect and often fear on the government side of the House than the often hostile and sometimes offensive Fisher.

From the very outset back in the 1957 election, he came to the capital with something of a ready-made reputation as a political giant-killer, having knocked off the late great C. D. "Trader" Howe, until then widely regarded as key man among those supposed "indispensables" of the long and often seemingly everlasting Liberal years.

Next in the Liberal upset itself, Fisher's feat was perhaps the most surprising.

Then through six years of former Prime Minister Diefenbaker's regime, the Liberals watched and admired him as he needed and harassed the Conservatives.

And if they came to regard him as a full-time ally during the long fight when the Opposition mounted a co-operative campaign to wreck the Conservative administration, they quickly learned better.

For the way things have been working out, he has done them far more harm than he was ever able to do the Conservatives.

Without doubt, the blow that hurt the Liberals worst and shook their new administration hardest was the one Fisher struck on the budget.

It happened the morning after the budget.

Fisher asked Walter Gordon about the three budget "Ghost Writers" and it took the government months to get the fat out of the fire. In fact, if you listen carefully, you can still hear the odd sizzle.

It hadn't been much of a secret that Walter Gordon had imported a trio of financial Whiz Kids from Bay Street and the Harvard School of Business Administration to work on the budget.

They were seen for weeks around and about the capital, even in the Parliamentary Restaurant where they became such familiar figures that just about everybody was saying hello.

If anybody thought it odd that three "strangers," a trio of rank "outsiders," actually were at work on the budget, that super-secret of all secret government documents, nobody said anything as the days and weeks went by. Nobody, especially, as it turned out, Douglas Fisher who HAD noticed and DID wonder about it.

He just sat there and waited. Quietly. Patiently, as the clock ticked out on the budget.

The timing was beautiful, wickedly so.

Had Douglas Fisher so much as let a whisper drop that he was aware of the Whiz Kids, or worse, asked a question about it in the Commons BEFORE the budget, the finance minister would have sent them packing back to Bay Street and Boston, perhaps before they got that peek at what he confessed to Parliament was the "final draft."

Walter Gordon could have slipped them back to Toronto and Harvard almost any time up to the very day of the budget and been able to ask innocently, "Who, me?" If questioned about the strange presence of the three "outsiders."

BUT AFTER the budget when the astute—and oh, so patient—Douglas Fisher asked his politically devastating question about the Whiz Kids, it was too late by 12 hours for Finance Minister Gordon to disown them. He was stuck with them. And the bright and shining image of the new government's supposed super know-how was blurred. Quite an MP, this Douglas Fisher.

Brave New World of 1984

By JOHN DAVY, from London

The New Scientist has launched a series of articles in which various distinguished scientists are invited to look forward 20 years, and consider where science will stand in 1984.

Easily the most urgent contributor so far is Professor Joshua Lederberg, Nobel prize winner and professor of genetics at Stanford University, California. He believes that we have not yet woken up to the peculiar crisis which current development in biology may generate.

Brave New World

The crux of the matter is that we may soon be able to manipulate complex organisms—notably man—with some of the confidence and skill hitherto only applicable to inanimate objects and materials.

For example, within 20 years, Dr. Lederberg says, it may have become relatively easy to transplant various vital organs, including hearts, livers or complex limbs.

The demand seems certain to outrun the supply. How is the "market" in spare parts to be organized? Who should decide whether the organs of a newly dead person may be transplanted to someone else?

The ruthless logic of the situation would be to declare all corpses state property, to be plundered by the surgeons as necessary. Large "banks" of deep frozen organs might be built up.

But the issue goes beyond logic. Deep-rooted feelings, beliefs and customs will be involved. Doctors will face terrible dilemmas—which patients should receive organs in short supply?

Dr. Lederberg believes we should start to think about these problems now, rather than when they hit us in an acute form.

Because of these developments and other discoveries, old age and death may be considerably postponed. Here, too, Dr. Lederberg argues, considerable social and economic stresses could be set up. It will become, quite simply, more expensive to keep people alive.

If organ transplants become routine, complex teams of surgeons, anaesthetists and nurses will still be needed for each operation. Hospital beds will be occupied during recovery. Yet huge numbers of lives might be prolonged by such operations.

What price will the community be prepared to pay to add 10 or 20 years, say, to its citizens' expectation of life?

More far-reaching still is the prospect—admittedly still distant—of manipulating the unborn foetus or infant to control sex, enhance intelligence or other characteristics.

What effect will it have on family life if it is fairly easy to determine the sex of a child? Suppose the parents are allowed to choose, but this leads to a big excess of males or females. Should the state step in?

Brave New World

Suppose, too, that intelligence could be chemically controlled, and every parent demanded that their child be pushed up to near-genius level. Or that aggressive impulses could be permanently eliminated.

Such developments would affect individuals much more intimately than atomic bombs or space rockets, penetrating right into family and personal life. Whether the fabric of society would survive such jolts without fearful rents appearing seems far from certain.

Finally, Dr. Lederberg says, it might become possible to breed "clones" of genetically identical individuals, just as stable strains of plants are produced by grafting and vegetative reproduction. Such strains could be guaranteed free of inherited diseases and defects, sex-controlled, with predictable IQs, etc.

Dr. Lederberg says that he has been accused of "demonic advocacy" for discussing such matters "and not pretending they are infinitely far off." Many people may feel that it would be better if they stayed far off.

Brave New World

On the other hand, they are intimately linked, as Dr. Lederberg says, with the treatment of mental illness, old age, degenerative diseases, and mental retardation. The research to solve these problems is just that which may place huge and uncomfortable new powers in men's hands.

These problems, Dr. Lederberg concludes, are "too important to be left only to biologists." The deeper understanding of human biology now opening up must be "part of the insight of literary, political, social economic and moral teaching."

He dedicates his article "to the memory of the prophetic vision and artistic clarity of Aldous Huxley," author of Brave New World (in which humans are grown in bottles) who died last year.

Park-for-Park Swap Makes Sense

Let's Trade Sites

By IAN STREET

The city can, if it wishes, exchange the proposed Beacon Hill museum site for a park site only a stone's throw from the Inner Harbor.

The possibility of this "park-for-park" swap makes Mr. Chant's proposal well worth considering. The initial reaction within city hall to the bombshell that part of Beacon Hill Park should be given over to a provincial museum was to say no.

But then, on second thought, this became, I don't know. There is one reassuring aspect of the whole affair. The deed of trust held by the city for Beacon Hill Park specifically states that it shall be "for the enjoyment and recreation of the public" and that control rests with the mayor and aldermen.

The key, I think, lies in the disclosure by Mr. Chant that the site generally talked of for the museum, where government employees cars are now parked at Belleville and Douglas, is too small.

This comes as a relief to those who feel that open space (by this I don't mean for parking) on the perimeter of the Inner Harbor, right on the government's front doorstep, is at a premium.

How pleasant it would be to have the area now given over to blacktop parking space transformed into green lawns and flowerbeds and cool shade trees. This is a logical extension of Thunderbird Park and the provincial government's fine pioneer museum in the restored Helmcken house.

The government, no doubt, would be reluctant to give up this area for parking, but the city is in a position to insist on the exchange if it is willing to consider the Beacon Hill proposal.

Well, granted, most people would like to see the creation of a new downtown park in this critical central location.

But if another site has to be chosen why does it have to be in Beacon Hill Park? Wouldn't Clover Point do as well? Probably it would, but why not have the best.

As a museum site, Beacon Hill probably has few equals in the world. In order to capitalize on its potential, however, there would have to be an imaginative design.

Such a building would have to be an extension of the site—perhaps a series of low terraced buildings with picture windows and sheltered courts open to the wide sweep of Juan de Fuca Strait and the Olympics beyond.

What a backdrop this would

CITY HALL COMMENT

make for the exhibits in the museum. No need for paint-and-plaster dioramas here.

It would be unthinkable to have a building like the new Victoria courthouse on this lovely spot.

There could be nothing with the solid, unimaginative lines of the Douglas Building to block the view from Beacon Hill, and this type of design is the specialty of government architects.

So if the museum proposal is to be considered seriously, please, Mr. Chant, don't have the design carried out within your own department.

In fact, the city should insist that a design competition be held among all architects who wish to compete, just as was done—with fine results—for the new Simon Fraser University. There's no reason to doubt that the technical problem of providing adequate parking hidden beneath the museum can be solved.

A legal snag could crop up. But Chief Justice Matthew Baillie Begbie, in a judgement handed down in 1984, ruled that Beacon Hill Park could be used for an aquarium. And isn't a museum an equally proper place "for the enjoyment and recreation of the public?"

So the city has nothing to lose by giving further consideration to any detailed plans which the government may present.

It could gain: a new downtown park, a museum built at no direct cost to local taxpayers; and probably other civic improvements as well including a swimming pool at Horseshoe Bay and a lower promenade alongside the Causeway.

would dismiss as Anglo-Saxons. He is a pragmatic politician. He has the strong support of liberal-intellectual organs like the Paris weekly newspaper L'Express, he has a good wartime resistance record and he has excelled as an administrator in his 10 years as mayor of the sun-drowsy, yet volatile, port city of Marseille.

He is surrounded by a dynamic "equipe" or team of ardent supporters, all set for the fray.

Defferre would end NATO, French pin-pricks against NATO, support the nuclear test-ban treaty, concentrate on political realities, discard a policy of grandeur built largely around nuisance value.

It remains to be seen whether he can whip the inchoate left into anything like a serious threat to de Gaulle, who is almost as "institutional" as the Eiffel Tower. People may not like the look of it, but they like the look of it around as a symbol.

GASTON DEFERRERRE

demurred, arguing that he must be free of party ties to rally all the leftist forces in the country.

Though almost unknown internationally and occasionally derided as "a socialist with a yacht," Defferre is by no means what the French call a man of straw. He has vigor and style.

It used to be said that if Britain and North America voted in French elections, victory would go to a man like Pierre Mendes-France, widely admired abroad but a declining figure at home.

In the same way Defferre will probably assume an attractive figure to those whom de Gaulle

Gaston the Would-Be Giant-Killer Impossible Attempted

By ALAN HARVEY from London

The "Monsieur X" of French politics is over the first barrier in a long, lonely and seemingly impossible campaign to dislodge President de Gaulle from the seat of the mighty.

Few experts give him much chance. He seeks to win the votes of the French left in the presidential elections that must be held before the end of 1965, and the French left is a notoriously hard team to drive in harness.

Besides, nearly everyone will tell you, General de Gaulle is unbeatable.

But Monsieur X—53-year-old Gaston Defferre, the Socialist mayor of Marseille—is going to have a try at the giant-killer task. He has surmounted his first big obstacle by reaching a compromise with the man who could have torpedoed him, Socialist Party leader Guy Mollet.

During a Socialist congress, Mollet sought to ensure that Defferre an presidential candidate would be responsible to the Socialist party. Defferre

Millions at Stake

By IAN COULTER, from London

France is offering to sell Communist China a fleet of Caravelle jet airliners.

The offer is an attempt to get ahead of Britain's plane-makers in meeting expected orders worth $280,000,000 from Peking.

China's aviation authorities, intent on building up a large fleet of modern jet airliners, are on the verge of buying 10 Caravelle jets as the first step.

The most likely British contender for Chinese contracts is the Hawker Siddeley combine, makers of both the near-veteran Comet airliner and of the new Trident.

China is now being catapulted into operating international passenger jets partly for diplomatic and prestige reasons, but also because it will soon open a major civil air route to Pakistan. Air Commodore Nur Khan, managing director of Pakistan International Airlines, confirmed the Chinese intention when he visited London last week. He said he thought the Chinese would require initially some 80 aircraft.

A purchase on this scale would mean, with full spares and servicing contracts, around $140,000,000.

Although France, with its initial Caravelle sale, is likely to be first, a considerable amount of business should go to Britain. For each Caravelle would be powered by two Rolls-Royce Avon engines.

VIEWPOINT

Who Needs Sleep?

By HARRY NELSON from Los Angeles

Scientists are beginning to suspect that sleep is possibly more habit than necessity, and that a properly conditioned person could get along with only an hour or two of sleep a night.

Some researchers suspect that sleep is a conditioned response acquired at a very early age and which persists throughout life.

It has always been assumed that sleep was merely the turning off of the system in the brain that keeps us awake—that sleep is only a passive state.

But work done at the University of California at Los Angeles brain research institute indicates that sleep is just as active as wakefulness and that a separate system controls it.

The concept that there are two opposing systems, each triggered into dominance by situations to which the brain becomes conditioned soon after birth, implies that it is possible to condition an individual in such a way that one system will be continually dominant.

In fact, researchers are now planning an experiment in which newborn animals will be "taught" to remain awake at all times.

Clear Out Home Bars MLA Urges

Children who get into trouble while drinking usually come from "the better homes of our community" rather than from families on welfare, says Burnaby Soerod MLA Charles MacSorley.

"I have visited some of these homes and they have a better stock of liquor than some of the old-time bars," he said in his maiden speech in the provincial legislature yesterday.

"We should set an example by clearing out these home-made bars so children will not find liquor so easy to obtain," said Mr. MacSorley.

He also suggested that operators of licensed premises be fined rather than their customers if they consumers are picked up for drunkenness, and said government liquor stores should apply better enforcement to the adult-only liquor sale regulations.

"Of all the social evils I have come across in my time, I think liquor has been responsible for most of them," said the Soerod MLA.

Fewer Jobs For Students Report Says

MONTREAL (CP) — Results of a cross-Canada survey by Loyola College in Montreal indicate that summer employment for university students may soon be a thing of the past.

The results, released yesterday, show student employment is being reduced by increased government support for education, the tendency of industries to cut down on temporary work and shortening of the off-school season.

The 70-page report nevertheless states that many students still need summer jobs to pay for their keep. Cost of tuition now usually can be met through grants, loans and bursaries.

Names in the News

Imperfect Stranger Fires Victim Draws Blank

COLORADO SPRINGS — Joseph Bernstein, 26, was sitting quietly in a restaurant when a man walked up to him, shoved a gun in his chest and pulled the trigger.

A blank shell exploded and the stranger walked out. After treatment for powder burns, Bernstein told police he'd never seen the man before.

AIKEN, S.C. — Barbara Powers, 28, divorced in 1962 by famed U2 pilot Gary Powers on grounds of habitual drunkenness, married William Reynolds, 33, a resident of her hometown of Milledgeville, Ga.

LONDON — Photographers had a session with Prince Andrew, youngest child of Queen Elizabeth, as a preview to his fourth birthday, Feb. 19.

THE HAGUE — Informed sources said Dutch Princess Isele, 24, broke off her engagement to an unidentified Spanish Catholic nobleman because of pressure from her mother, Queen Juliana. The queen said Tuesday Irene made the decision.

NEW YORK — Prime Minister Pearson advised the Joseph Kennedy Jr. Foundation for Mentally Retarded that more than 3,000 Canadians gave $70,000 to a memorial fund after the Kennedy assassination.

FERGUS, Ont. — High school principal Donald Turk, 52, was charged with three counts of forging exam papers to gain his son his upper school matriculation standing.

VANCOUVER — John Gronow, 25, charged with committing an indecent act, shouted at Magistrate Les Bowley "I won't be here tomorrow, then charged head down into a door. He fell unconscious.

with a head wound but is in satisfactory condition in hospital.

BROWNWOOD, Texas — Multimillionaire oilman Fred Turner, 68, whose wife was beaten to death four months ago by a burglar, died of a heart ailment. His horse Tony Lee won the 1959 Kentucky Derby.

CHICAGO — John Johnson won court permission to change his name to Umberto Bell'Ornasella. The native of Italy changed to Johnson when he moved to the U.S. His family in Italy was upset so he changed back.

MANILA — Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo, 94, hero of the Philippines fight for independence, died of a stroke.

OTTAWA — David Munro, 80, of Ottawa and Victoria, has been appointed chief of the Canadian Wildlife Service. He succeeds W. W. Muir who has joined the national parks branch of northern affairs department.

SURREY — Friends told the RCMP that widow Mrs. Mary Oliver, 71, stabbed to death by two or three knives in a torture murder in her home, "lived in unknown fear and said she would die by unnatural, violent causes."

MODENA, Italy — House painter Gabriele Beggiani, 25, claimed a world record for staying awake, 267 hours, and said he did it "to attract attention and get a better-paid job."

ZANZIBAR — Canadian-born Thomas Franch, a New York University faculty member, has been hired to draw up a new constitution for the island republic. He was legal adviser at

Automation Is Here —Standards No Higher

With the advent and development of automation should come a high physical and cultural standard of living. Opposition Leader Robert Strachan told a crowd of 200 at Douglas Hall last night.

He was speaking after a New Democrat Party smorgasbord at which members met the MLA's of the opposition.

HIGH STANDARD
Automation was here—but the ideal of a high standard of physical and cultural living had not arrived with it, said Mr. Strachan.

"When we look at the unemployment figures, they don't look too bad," said Mr. Strachan. "Only about five per cent. Until we realize that in the 18 to 24 age group, 20 per cent are unemployed. And they are not going to put up with it much longer.

NO PURPOSE
"This is why the young people of today are against the society that has been created for them—because it has no purpose, except to count the dollars that are earned."

This was because of the failure to adjust working hours, methods and conditions to fall in with the increased amount of automation being introduced in every field of industry and life.

Cancer Demand Denied

TORONTO (CP)—The Star says a retired Toronto chemist who claims to have developed a cancer serum, has denied that he asked a cancer-stricken woman for $100,000 before he would give her the serum.

The newspaper says Vladimir Mirkovich, 68, denied he demanded first $30,000, then $100,000, before he would treat Mrs. Helen Podolski, 48, of Toronto, who died Dec. 20.

Her husband said the chemist later offered to cure his wife without charge, but did not produce the serum in time.

Mr. Mirkovich said: "It is possible I mentioned that I needed a large sum of money for laboratory facilities to develop my serum."

"I do not want any money for my serum which definitely cures cancer and I can prove it."

Tories Woo Quebec Votes

OTTAWA (CP)—The Progressive Conservative party launched a determined bid Wednesday to woo Quebec voters with a leader, a program and an organization with a French accent.

Quebec delegates at the party's annual convention unanimously asked Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker to recognize Leon Balcer as leader of the Conservatives' Quebec wing and as his "chief lieutenant."

NATIONAL STATURE
Mr. Diefenbaker agreed immediately and praised the Trois-Rivières MP as a moderate French-Canadian leader with a national stature comparable to that of Sir Georges-Etienne Cartier, chief lieutenant to Sir John A. Macdonald, Canada's first prime minister.

Mr. Balcer, transport minister in the Diefenbaker cabinet, was among the eight Conservative MPs elected in Quebec in last year's federal election. This compared with a 50-man Quebec contingent elected in the 1958 Conservative sweep and 14 MPs after the 1962 vote.

"We must not forget this," Mr. Balcer told a meeting of 180 Quebec delegates. "It is not an easy task that awaits us in the Conservatives in Quebec. Many changes have taken place in the province in recent years."

VMD Still Hopes For Weathership

Low bidder on the second new Pacific weathership, at $9,758,900, is Burrard Dry Dock Company of North Vancouver, but Victoria Machinery Depot still hopes to get the contract.

Yarrows is now building a $4,518,493 Pacific Naval Laboratory vessel.

"Inasmuch as Burrard has been awarded (but not yet started) the first weathership contract," Mr. Husband said, "VMD should receive preferred consideration on this second contract. We have no forward contracts."

The new 400-foot vessels, with 7,500-horsepower engines, are to have the latest meteorological and oceanographic instruments.

Burrard Dry Dock was successful bidder on the first Pacific weathership at $9,932,694 last summer.

"The department of transport policy has been to distribute this work," Harold Husband, president of VMD, said last night.

Quebec wants policies that come from Quebec and meet Quebec needs, and which are good for Canada at the same time."

The national convention began the process of passing resolutions sponsored by Quebec delegates. These favored financial incentives for bilingual civil servants, the repatriation of the constitution and a permanent secretariat to facilitate federal-provincial relations.

Another Quebec proposal for a distinctive flag and adoption of O Canada as the national anthem was voted down by a 2 to 1 margin. The convention proposed only that a federal-provincial conference be called "to advise with regard to the flag and other symbols of unity."

Labatt Control To Pass

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Control of John Labatt Ltd. "will probably pass to new hands" but the present management will continue, C. H. Moore, president of the 136-year-old brewing firm, said yesterday.

In a telegram to managers of Labatt's 11 breweries across Canada, Mr. Moore said an offer from the Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co. of Milwaukee to purchase 1,500,000 shares from members of the Labatt family and other shareholders has not been accepted yet by either group.

The offer is for $23 a share, or $34,500,000. If accepted, it would give the American firm about 35 per cent of Labatt's outstanding shares, enough for effective control of the company.

Speculative Fever Breaks Out Late

TORONTO (CP)—Speculative fever broke out late in the afternoon and prevented the volume from dropping to its low level for several months on the stock market Wednesday.

Consolidated Nicholson led the active list, trading 37,000 shares for a gain of 2 1/2 cents to 14 cents.

Croitor rose five cents to 32 cents, Salem nine cents to 65 cents, Consolidated-Mogul 20 cents to $5.40 and Consolidated-Rambler eight cents to $2.65.

Amherst Imperial fell 1 1/2 to 22 1/2 after slipping to a new low of 21 1/2 following its takeover of John Wood. The latter stock closed even at 13 on more than 67,000 shares.

Labatt's, the object of a takeover battle, was unchanged at 22 1/2 on heavy turnover.

NEW YORK (AP)—Rallies by at the close of trading on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges.

As in several recent sessions, the over-all market was mixed. Trading was moderate.

Popular averages were boosted by Du Pont's spurt of 12 1/2 amid Wall Street gossip about a stock split. After a spokesman for the company was quoted as saying a stock split is not on the agenda of an upcoming directors' meeting, the big gain melted and Du Pont closed at 256, a net rise of 3 1/2.

Stocks of savings- and loan companies embarked on an upsurge of their own, based on reports of firming interest rates for mortgages.

Tobacco—both cigarette and cigar stocks—also rallied.

MONTREAL (CP)—The stock market was down fractionally at the close of trading.

JUDY LAMARSH
... proud to say

OTTAWA (UPI) — Health Minister Judy LaMarsh said Wednesday that the Russians and Czechoslovakians at the pre-tournament Olympic Games had a "deliberate program to incite" the tempers of Father Bauer's amateur hockey players.

"But I am proud to say that they (the Canadians) remained gentlemen," she said, following her trip to Innsbruck.

Canadians have a reputation for roughness as a result of their performance in the past two years, Miss LaMarsh said.

The Russians and Czechs had "deliberately" tried to incite Canadian tempers during games played in the two countries prior to the Olympic tournament, she said.

"I am very much behind Father Bauer," said Miss LaMarsh. "The team is a great credit to us. They are not polished, but they are fine kids and have created a great deal of interest over there."

The interest and knowledge of the man on the street in Europe on what was happening in the Olympic hockey tournament was probably far superior to that in Canada, she added.

WILL DO WELL

"Canadians here don't think Father Bauer's boys are going to do very well," she said. "I was proud of them."

Miss LaMarsh also said that there was a suggestion that "international politics" and absentee voters from South America contributed to Canada's failure to win the 1968 Olympic games for Banff.

MORE IMPACT

Miss LaMarsh, who has just returned from Innsbruck, told newsmen that some former Olympic experts suggested "off the cuff" that Russia might have given more of its votes to Grenoble than to Canada because it could make more of a propaganda impact if the games were held in France.

"That may or may not be," said the health minister.

She added that several of the South American representatives who had indicated they would support the Canadian bid, which ran second to Grenoble, did not go to Austria — some because they couldn't afford it.

"Many of the representatives from the Americas were as eager to support us as the Europeans were to support a European entry," she said.

"But many of them were not there to vote. It is just like any election — if you don't have the ballots you don't win."

Another reason which "made sense" for the rejection of Banff, she said, was the fact that the 1968 summer Olympics will be held in Mexico and the 1967 alpine ski championships in Chile.

EAGLE KEYS

Eagle Keys Fired By New Executive In Esk Shakeup

EDMONTON (CP)—Eagle Keys, coach of Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference, has been fired.

The decision was announced by new club president Walter Sprague following a directors' meeting Wednesday.

Sprague said: "The new board of directors of the Edmonton Eskimo Football Club, after due consideration, have come to the unanimous decision to terminate the contract of head coach Eagle Keys."

A spokesman for the nine-member board of directors said Keys' contract, which had a year to run, was honored.

because I think I know more about the game here."

Keys was on the second year of a two-year contract given him at the start of last season when he launched a rebuilding program. His salary was estimated at $12,500 a year. In terms of service with one club he was the dean of coaches in Canada.

He gained his first fame with Eskimos when he hobbled out with a broken leg on third downs during the 1954 Grey Cup game, the first of three successive Canadian championships for the club.

Sprague said the new coach will not be restricted by re-signing by Keys. However, he added, no coach would clean house without first studying the ability of players now with the club.

NEW BOARD

Eskimos new board of directors was established when shareholders approved the first of four recommendations by an inquiry into club operations launched last October amid fan and player unrest.

The inquiry was conducted by six past presidents, including Sprague and it split three-three on whether Keys should be retained as head coach.

The report also recommended retention of general manager Joe Ryan, and hiring of a full-time public relations officer.

MORE SPORT PAGES 9, 11

"Some work has already been done toward finding a successor," he said. He would not elaborate.

COACHED FIVE YEARS

Keys coached Eskimos for five years, after coming to the team in 1952 and earning all-conference honors at centre.

A native of Turkey Neck Bend, Ky., he served as scout and assistant coach from 1954 to 1958.

Keys succeeded Sam Lyle in the head coach's job in 1959 when the latter resigned just before the opening of training camp.

NEVER WON

During his regime the team finished second three times, behind Winnipeg Blue Bombers, but in 1960 ousted Bombers in the conference finals to enter the Grey Cup. The 40-year-old coach failed to guide the club into the playoffs in either of the last two seasons finishing in last place in 1962 and in 1963.

Keys is a graduate of Western Kentucky State. He played his first Canadian football for Montreal's 1949 Grey Cup champion Alouettes and stayed there for three seasons before coming to Edmonton.

START NEW DEAL

Of the decision, Sprague said: "The complete board met this afternoon for three hours and considered every factor involved. We decided we must start a new deal with our new board and this brought about new requirements."

"Whether we go up or down we were unanimous about this step and will sink or swim with it."

Sprague said the club would have to act fast to replace Keys.

Keys, in his 12th year with the club, said the decision came as "a complete surprise and shock to me."

"But heck, I appreciate the fan support and the wonderful friends I've made during my stay. It's a new board and they've decided to make a new start."

"I hope to stay in football and definitely will try to find a post in Canada. I'm going to look around to see what's available and I'll be willing to accept most anything—assistant, head coaching or what have you."

"I want to stay in Canada."

Today's Program

Rebroadcast: third run, four-man sled bobsledding men's 1,500 metres.

Broadcast: "B" division luge vs. Austria, Hungary vs. Czechoslovakia, Poland vs. Japan, Romania vs. Norway.

Canada Conduct Praised

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—Canadian hockey teams playing abroad have become accustomed to criticism in the European press, both for their conduct on and off the ice.

Now comes a fresh note from the Sports Kurier of West Germany in a report on the Olympic Games where Canada is represented in hockey by a team assembled by Rev. David Bauer from young players from across Canada.

Wilhelm Kauke, writing in the West German paper, says Father Bauer, a Roman Catholic priest, has brought to the Olympics a new type of Canadian hockey team: "A group of well-brought-up gentlemen."

Canadians Could Win by Thaw

Daredevil Sledders Close to Medal

By BOB CURRIE

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—A daredevil Canadian four-man bobsled team, led by Vic Emery of Montreal, gave Canada its brightest chance for a gold medal at the Winter Olympic Games, hurtling to a 0-100ths of a second lead after two heats over the treacherous 1,500-metre Olympic chute Wednesday.

Emery and his crew came through to win the first heat and place second in the other despite a slushy track and weakened retaining walls. The Canadians barely missed hitting some cracked ice at one of the hairpin curves.

Officials scheduled the third and fourth runs for today and Friday but they said that if the chute can't be repaired sufficiently to complete the event in four heats, the gold medal will go to the Canadians because they have the best aggregate time.

"Here we are knocking on the door," said team manager Chuck Rathgeb of Toronto.

"It's just a case of mental attitude from here in. With the third run Thursday and the fourth on Friday it's like playing spread over three days. The pressure has been terrific on our guys."

PREDICT THAW

The weathermen predicted warm winds and thaw during the night that could make the course "at nearby" Igls even worse. Austrian army details were called out for all-night repair work to patch up deep ruts cut into the icy curves with fresh snow brought in by truck. A light drizzle hampered them.

Emery, his brother John, a Toronto plastic surgeon, Peter Kirby of St. Jovite, Que., and Doug Annakin of Montreal shot down the course with its 14 curves in two minutes, 6.81 seconds.

Italy's No. 2 team, led by Roberto Piccini, was second with a time of 7:07.50 and the Austrian No. 1 sled, piloted by Erwin Thaler, with a time of 7:07.61 clocking in.

Germany's No. 1 bobs, with Frass Shelle driving, was fourth in 7:07.11. Shelle had the best time — 1:03.50 — in the second heat.

There was much jubilation in the Canadian camp over the bobsledders' showing. One of the most enthusiastic was Rathgeb.

DOKE 'REAL GOOD'

"Even if we don't win—and I believe we can wrap it up Friday—we've done something real good," Rathgeb said.

In the first heat, the Canadian quartet equalled the course record of 1:02.99, easily the best time of the day, and as the course slowed they were clocked in 1:03.82 for the second heat. Still, the Canadian time was second best in the second heat

Canada in Weak Win

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—The Canadians, playing even worse hockey than in their 4-2 win over weak Germany, beat Finland 5-2 Wednesday.

The Soviets crushed Germany 10-0, the same score they'd piled up against Finland the day before.

Sweden also was impressive Wednesday as it won its fourth game in five starts by trouncing Switzerland's winless team 12-0—the most lopsided score of the tournament since Russia whipped the Swiss 15-0.

But it was the Soviet team that impressed as both clubs won their fifth straight matches.

Four Veterans Corner Medals

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—Gold medals went to Norway, Sweden, Austria and Russia at the ninth Winter Olympic Games Wednesday while a daring bobsled team gave Canada its biggest hope yet for a gold medal when it raced into the lead in the four-man bobsledding after two runs.

Four gold medals were awarded Wednesday, to:

Veteran Knut Johannessen, 30, of Norway with a record time in the men's 5,000-metre speed-skating, where the Soviet defending champion finished fourth.

Sixteen Jernberg of Sweden, who turns 35 today, in the men's 50-kilometre 30% mile cross-country ski race.

Claudia Boyarshnik of Russia in the women's five-kilometre cross-country, for her second gold medal.

And Austria's Josef Friesenmantl and Manfred Stengl in the first Olympic running of the two-man luge (toboggan).

There were fears of new tragedies Wednesday on the toboggan and bobsled chutes, where the thawing weather of Sunday and Monday left spots of soft ice and slush, but no serious injuries occurred.

St. Andrews Grab Title For Bantams

St. Andrews won the Victoria Basketball Association bantam boys' championship last night, beating Boys Club, 51-30, at Mount View gym.

St. Andrews has taken the first game of the total-point series, 40-12.

Seals, Blades Want Young

CHICAGO (AP) — San Francisco and Los Angeles of the Western League are among three minor league hockey teams that have made bids for defenceman Howie Young, Chicago Black Hawk general manager Tommy Ivan says.

Ivan said a decision on what to do with Young will be made soon. He was waived by the five other National Hockey League clubs last week.

New Contract For Landry Eleven Years

DALLAS (AP) — Tom Landry, coach of Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League, signed a contract Wednesday giving him 11 more years with the club.

Landry, 30, the only coach the Cowboys have had, held a contract with one more year to go and signed a contract for 10 additional years.

Sweden and Czechoslovakia, beaten 7-5 by Russia in its only loss, clash in the tournament's final game Saturday after the Canada-Russia encounter.

Both the Canadians' Friday and Saturday games will be broadcast in Canada on the CBC's national radio network.

The Canadian camp here was disturbed over Wednesday's showing by the young, inexperienced Canadian squad. But

Play in the annual men's open bonspiel opened yesterday morning and when action went into last night's late draws, there had been no major upsets.

Harvey Hodge of Duncan, skipping for Glen Harper, Vern Kaspick and Lowell Berkeley, just about came a cropper in his first-round game against Frank Coates of Duncan but managed to come out on top with a key last-rock draw.

Changing places with Harper on the identical rink which several times came close to winning the B.C. championship, Hodge started home with a shaky 4-3 lead after Coates, Cornox Valley Curling Club zone finalist, had deliberately blanked the ninth end.

With one rock to come from each skip, Coates had two counters on the tee line in opposite halves of the eight-foot ring. Hodge drew up in front of one with an in-turn draw to lay shot and stole a point when Coates was a bit wide with an out-turn try at chipping.

Buzz Wins Spiel Event

VERNON (CP)—Buzz McGibney of Trail drew his final rock to the four-foot circle Wednesday for an 8-7 victory and the "A" event championship of the B.C. Curling Association bonspiel.

"B" event winner was Al Harris of Quesnel, who defeated Joe McKinnon of Kamloops 7-6 in an extra-end thriller between a pair of zone winners.

Centre Site Chosen

Oak Bay council has ruled out any existing park as site for the proposed municipal recreation centre and has agreed on a site which council will have to buy.

The decision, made public Tuesday at a meeting of the Oak Bay Ratepayers' Association, rules out as sites both Firemen's Park, proposed by council's zoning and development planning committee, and Carnarvon Park, proposed earlier by Reeve Allan Cox.

NOW CONSIDERED

Location of the site now being considered by council has not been released for publication. Reeve Cox said last night, but he said the site is at present privately owned and for the most part not residential.

He said the council now estimates that the proposed centre will cost Oak Bay $865,000, compared to an estimated $680,000 the centre would have cost at the Firemen's Park site.

Both these estimates were net figures which did not include money expected to come from federal and provincial government grants.

Strikers Protest Ballot

Members of the union striking at the Alberta Meat Market yesterday staged a demonstration at the headquarters of the B.C. government's labor department.

Seven members of the striking Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America (CLC), Local 212, walked back and forth in front of the headquarters protesting the taking there of a government-supervised vote under a little-used section of B.C. labor legislation.

The vote, said George Johnston of Vancouver, union secretary, was on a company offer rejected by the union some time ago.

FIVE PERSONS

Eligible to vote, Mr. Johnston said, were four persons now employed at the store—he termed them strikebreakers—and two of the strikers. Mr. Johnston said the union felt five persons fired by the company after the taking of a strike vote should also have been eligible.

The two strikers considered eligible by the government boycotted the vote. Mr. Johnston said it was a foregone conclusion the four "strikebreakers" would accept the offer.

Parole Man Here Next Week

National Parole Board member J. Alex Edmison will visit Victoria Monday where he will speak in the Empress Hotel to the Victoria Gyro Club at noon and be guest of honor at a dinner meeting of the board of directors of the John Howard Society at 7 p.m.

While on Vancouver Island Mr. Edmison will visit provincial institutions at Snowdon and Lakeview camps near Campbell River and the federal penitentiary at Williams Head.

He will also have discussions with officials of the attorney-general's department, the John Howard Society and other organizations about matters relating to parole.

Ron Worley To Sell B.C. In California

Premier Bennett said yesterday he will send his former executive assistant to California March 16 to 25, to promote B.C.'s tourist attractions.

Ronald B. Worley, who is now assistant manager of the B.C. government ferry service, will lead a six-man group to Los Angeles. It is believed they are to appear on Truth or Consequences, Quizzes for a Day and First Impressions television shows and present a totem pole to Bob Hope.

JAMESTOWN, Tenn. — Sgt. Alvin York, 76, First World War hero who entered hospital last Wednesday for treatment of a dehydrated condition, went home.

The great highway performer

'64 Chevrolet Impala Sport Sedan and (background) Impala Sport Coupe

'64 Jet-Smooth Luxury Chevrolet

What does it take to make a car a great highway performer?

If the car happens to be a '64 Chevrolet, one thing only. A highway.

You'll find everything else already neatly packaged for you—the car exactly as you pick it off the showroom floor.

There's a choice of seven engines—all the way up to a twin-carb high compression 425-hp V8*—and three transmissions, smooth shifting standard 3-Speed Synchro-Mesh, optional Powerglide automatic* and 4-Speed stick shift.*

And underlying it all—a bump-skimming Jet-smooth ride that helps keep the performance great even when the highways aren't so great.

Nobody has to doctor or coax or soup up these Chevrolets to get the best out of them. They were built to be driven by you—on the kinds of roads you drive on. And that's really the test of a great highway performer: just about anyone can get a kick out of driving one just about anywhere, just as it comes out of the showroom, summer or winter.

Or winter? Sure. Your Chevrolet is built to weather the weather—to keep its good looks through fair days and foul. Things like Magic-Mirror finish, flush-and-dry rocker panels, special inner front fenders, long-life exhaust system . . . all keep corrosion at bay—keep your Chevrolet looking and going great right up to trade-in time.

Next time you're out your dealer's way, allow a few extra minutes to sample one of these highway performers on your own. A few are really all you'll need. That's enough time to do a lot of driving in a Chevrolet.

*Optional at extra cost

Garden Notes

Spray—or Else!

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRES
Rachel Carson wouldn't have to do much more preaching to dissuade me from spraying my fruit trees, for if there is one garden chore I detest above all others, it is the job of mixing and applying the evil-smelling mixtures recommended for the health of our trees. But Silent Spring or no Silent Spring, I rate the leaf-curl spray for peaches an absolute must.

If I missed out on this spray, I would feel as guilty as if I had failed to have my children immunized against smallpox and diphtheria, and for much the same reason. Not only would I be risking the life of my peach tree, but by allowing it to come down with this loathsome disease, I would be spreading the infection all through our neighborhood.

This trouble is so common I imagine every gardener hereabouts has seen its disastrous effect. The tree blossoms and leads out normally but, soon after the leaves reach their full size, they become swollen, distorted and curled, with great reddish blisters all over them.

Later, the red coloring in the leaf changes as the fungus infection produces its fruiting spores, and the leaf surface becomes covered with a whitish deposit, something like a bad case of mildew. Twigs and fruit are affect and the tree loses all its leaves in early summer, and of course, without any foliage, it cannot manufacture any food for its tissues.

While an infected peach tree may succeed in pushing out a second crop of foliage, it can do this only at the expense of the food reserves stored in its wood and it is terribly weakened by the effort. Eventually, without help, the tree is bound to die.

Once these horrid symptoms appear, it is far too late to do anything about it. By that time, the disease is deep within the tissues of the leaves where no spray can reach it. The only time you can take any effective action is before the bud tips crack open in the spring—and remember, the peach starts into growth far earlier than apples and pears.

One difficulty is to catch a good spell of weather for this important job. You can't spray during rain, for this would dilute and wash away the spray before it gets in its cleansing action, and a windy day isn't much better. What we need is a calm, sunny day occurring before the buds crack open and, for those of us who go to work weekdays, this ideal weather must fall on a weekend.

Such fine weekends are not too common at this season of the year, so it is wise to have everything on hand ready to take advantage of any break that comes along. Buy your spray materials now and make sure your sprayer is in good working condition.

What kind of spray? Almost any kind of garden fungicide will do the trick. Lime-sulphur is an old and completely reliable treatment, but it has a foul smell and will discolor stucco and painted surfaces. Any spray containing copper will do a good job against leaf-curl, and these are inexpensive and readily available at the garden shops.

Bordeaux Mixture, Niagara Bordo, CIL Tri-Cop and Butoal are all good, or if you have on hand any spray recommended for the control of potato blight, this will be quite satisfactory on the peach tree. These copper-based sprays may cause some staining of paintwork, but unlike the lime-sulphur, it will wash off. I have even used a common household disinfectant such as Creolin, Crocidol or Lysol with good results, spraying at the rate of two tablespoons per gallon of water.

Whatever fungicidal spray you use, it must be applied very thoroughly, making sure every last twig is coated with the spray chemical, for just one tiny unsprayed bit could re-infect the whole tree.

SHEILAH GRAHAM Sees THE BEATLES

'Like a Revival Meeting'

PARIS (NANA)—There is a fight with the police at the stage entrance of the Olympia before and after every performance of The Beatles. The teens merely want to touch the famed quartet as they arrive and depart in their Rolls Royce. I saw the show yesterday and I have never seen anything like the hysteria of the audience, 80 per cent of which were boys from 15 to 17. It was like a religious revival meeting, with everyone stomping, clapping and screaming. I could barely hear The Beatles, so cannot tell you whether they are good or bad. But they must have something to rouse these thousands and thousands of youngsters. I shall be seeing The Beatles privately today, and will tell you more about them tomorrow.

Madame Nhu, who is living in Paris, was asked for an interview by a representative of an American news magazine. The little woman, who splits fire, replied: "It was your magazine that helped to kill my husband. If you want an interview, you must pay for it."

Coming up on Bart Libenstein's schedule, The Spy Who Came in From the Cold, which I found Ian Fleming reading when we met at the John F. Kennedy airport in New York. "It's the best thriller I've ever read," said Ian, who has written some good ones himself.

To the question, "Are you and Jules Danas married?" Melina Marcourt replied, "No. But if we do, nobody will know." Melina is a member of the Greek Orthodox Church. Her religion forbids inter-racial marriages. While completing her "Topkapli" with Max Schell, in Paris, Melina and Jules were sharing apartment 154 at the Georges Cinq. Maybe they are married.

When that tribal chief failed to buy Carroll Baker for X number of dollars and cows, he asked Robert Mitchum her co-star in Mr. Moses. "Why don't you buy her," Bob looked carefully around to make sure that Shirley MacLaine was not within earshot, then said, "How much do you think she's worth?" "Seven hundred dollars and two elephants and tigers thrown in" replied the chief. Carroll's husband, Jack Garfield is due in Kenya the middle of the month and he'll have no more talk of anyone buying his wife, thank you very much.

That scream you hear is Elke Sommer's agent, Kurt Frings protesting those nude photographs of her from The Victors that keep popping up in European magazines. What I say is, if Kurt hated them so much, why did he allow her to strip for the European version of the picture? I have seen some of the nudies and I don't think they add to Elke's stature in any shape or form. Except in a few cases, the female figure is better for a bit of drapery.

Reopened Russell put on a daily fashion show at the New York hospital, when she visited Van Johnson after his operation. She fascinated the nurses especially with her outlandish hats. Van is now recuperating in New York, and getting ready to resume his night club dates next month. His operation was a complete success.

A party of Texas millionaires were dining at the Caprice here recently. And one of them had a big wad of pound notes and he walked around the restaurant giving money to everyone he encountered. He came up against the dignified millionaire-sultan Mr. Gulbenkian, famed for his beard, the orchid in his buttonhole and his money, and the American said, "here's a pound." Gulbenkian drew back haughtily. "Not enough, hey?" said the man with the wad. He pressed two pounds into Gulbenkian's hands, and walked on.

We will see Albert Finney this spring in Night Must Fall. When Robert Montgomery played the same role in the first screen version, it won him the Oscar but finished his movie career. Until he played the Murderer, Robert had been identified with all the open-faced, honest-looking young men in the world. All of a sudden he was a killer and it was too great a shock apparently for his admirers.

How to get rich without trying at all: Joel McCrea just sold another 1,000 acres of his property in Conejo Valley, Calif. for $3,000 an acre. Joel originally paid $25 an acre for it.

Dana Andrews is another actor who believes that real estate is the fastest way to become a millionaire. He owns 200 apartment units, and a $2,500,000 apartment complex near Disneyland. Dana is now taking lessons in real estate management.

Noblesse Obliges JACK SMITH to Make Effort

Dolce Vita Countered

A lady has written me to complain that life is getting too soft. "All the ingenuity of men," she says, "which was harnessed for so long to nobility and beauty, is now bent on finding something a bit softer to put under their bottoms. Contraptions to make our drinks cooler, our houses warmer, our beds softer. It's disgusting!" I agree. From now on I'm going to do what I can to make my life more noble, beautiful and difficult.

"We've had it too easy," I explained to my wife. "A little asceticism won't hurt us any." "What are you going to give up?" she asked.

"We can start with the electric blanket," I said. "After all, an electric blanket! Isn't that kind of ridiculous? Not a single great man in history had one." "You can give up your half if you want," she said. "I'm not giving up my half. I like it." Well, you can't give up half an electric blanket. So we're keeping it.

"I know what," I said. "We can turn off the furnace at night instead of leaving it on all night. Then when we get up in the morning it'll be cold." "Brilliant," she said. "You ought to be a saint."

"Well, I do have the discipline for it, I suppose, but of course somebody would have to sponsor me. I don't think your wife can put you up for sainthood." "You could give up beer," she said. "That would be a start."

"No," I said. "I don't feel that's a great enough sacrifice." When you stop to think about it, it's not easy to find something worth giving up.

"I know what," I said. "We'll give up something we don't have yet. Instead of getting rid of something we already have we'll just get something we want."

"Look at the ads in the Diner's Club magazine," I suggested. "There out to be a lot of things in there we can not get." I found the magazine and turned through the ads. It was a gold mine of things in there we are not going to get. For example, we aren't getting a box of 12 fillets mignon for $33.

We have also decided not to get a bifocal rear view mirror, a lightweight transistorized bull horn for projecting one's voice 2,000 feet, a book entitled Financial Security and Self-Confidence, and the snooper, an electronic device that magnifies sound 1,000,000 times and enables one to listen in on his neighbor's private conversations.

I'm kind of curious though about a foot warmer, for only $9.95. "Ward off chills and colds," the ads say. "Keep toes and feet cozy warm." It's thermostatically controlled. You just set it to whatever degree of cozy warmth you want.

I suppose one could put it under one's bottom if one wished.

Staying Power

By DR. STUART ROSENBERG

"Who shall ascend the mountain of the Lord? And who shall stand in His holy place?" We often think of the Psalmist's query as a single question. Actually, he has posed two different and distinct problems: "Who can rise up? And who can stay up?"

It is one thing to go up; quite another to remain up. There are many who can, on occasion, rise to the occasion. Great moments call out greatness as deep as the spiritual stamina to stay at the heights.

How many can keep their head and spirits high and stay at the top when the going gets rough? Staying power is the real test of character.

dous force for good they could build if they had staying power. The lines of the poet about such people come to mind: "They do it every Sunday. They'll be 'all right' on Monday."

It's just a little habit they've acquired. Most of us are inoculated with a very mild form of religion and as a result we are immune to the genuine article. North America boasts over 25,000,000 religious adherents. If 25,000,000 people did more than just go up to the mountain of the Lord, if they would also learn how to stay there, this world could become a radically different place.

Materialism bestrides the globe like a mighty giant. It is no form—it is a force! We cannot meet a force with a form.

This is the principal underlying problem of democracy. If democratic freedom is to become a force in the world, we'll have to learn how to stay on top of our ideals; to take our democratic responsibilities as seriously as we take our baseball.

No conventional acceptance will do. For the whole earth has become a mammoth battlefield where no shadows but dynamic forces are contending. It will not do for us merely to rise to an occasional peak and forever after smugly rest on our laurels. We shall have to climb even higher peaks and learn how to stay there.

If those who truly believe in democracy behaved as if they meant what they said, we could change the world tomorrow.

Short Shocker

Smith Fails To Move B.C. Bank

Victoria MLA J. Donald Smith, last speaker at yesterday's sitting of the legislature, snapped all the weary members to attention with a surprise announcement about 6 p.m.

The House suddenly came alive when Mr. Smith said he had an announcement to make on the location of B.C.'s new federal bank.

"The head office of this bank will be in the capital city of Victoria . . ."

Gasps of disbelief were heard across the chamber floor. " . . . no far as I am concerned," the MLA continued calmly.

Roars of laughter and the sound of desk-thumping filled the chamber.

"No one would think of putting it in Vancouver—but we would certainly consider opening a branch office there," said Mr. Smith.

Frederic Bennett didn't go for the idea. Jumping to his feet, Mr. Bennett told the Victoria Scored: "We already have the Queen's Printer over here, and that might be a dangerous proposition."

Mr. Smith also:

● Urged the "forthright" opening of a B.C. House in Los Angeles to encourage Americans to visit B.C.

● Said he hopes the highly-publicized cultural grants commission which was promised by the government will be appointed and given a "large chunk of money" to work with before the House prorogues.

● Repeated his "annual request" for free bus passes for elderly citizens.

● Asked the government to act on a request for amendment of the Municipal Act permitting local option on Sunday sports and entertainment.

● Called for removal of the sales tax on meals costing more than $1. If the government does not want to remove all the tax, it might remove the "retroactive" feature under which the tax is charged on the initial dollar spent on more expensive meals.

Victoria Woman Injured on Street

A 62-year-old woman was described as in fairly good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital yesterday after being injured in an accident Tuesday.

Mrs. Lillian Cameron, 1045 Clare, was walking across Fort near Davis when she was in collision with a car driven by Frank De Forrest, 2300 Bowker.

Four Students for President In University Vote Tuesday

Four candidates are campaigning for the presidency of the University of Victoria student council, with final speeches Monday and the voting Tuesday.

They are, in alphabetical order, Olivia Barr, fourth year arts, director of publications; Michael Hutchison, second year arts, yearbook editor-in-chief; Sharon Kirk, fourth year arts, council social convener, and Daniel O'Brien, fourth year arts, student union building director, arts and letters club leader, and Martlet columnist Daniel.

Meat cutters' union delegate George Johnston, speaking to Victoria Labor Council last night, accused Labor Minister Peterson of strikebreaking.

He said a vote yesterday on a company offer at Alberta Meat Market, where a strike begins its 10th month today, was taken under a little-used B.C. labor law clause. It says a company offer may go to a vote at the direction of the labor minister.

Mr. Johnston said those allowed to vote were not representative of the employees. Of the original eight who voted to strike, five were fired and one of the others is working elsewhere. The council voted to protest Mr. Peterson's action.

YMCA officials said yesterday sale of the YM and YW buildings has not been completed to Lochearn Properties Ltd., which recently bought the downtown Woodward's store. Reported price for the Y buildings is $180,000.

A statement by Labor Minister Peterson that Victoria shipyard unions were unreasonable in refusing to postpone a strike until after a meeting yesterday was criticized at the Victoria Labor Council meeting last night.

Fred Davis of the electrical union said the labor department did not give the Victoria negotiating committee enough notice of the meeting for the membership to be notified of a postponement.

Greater Victoria school trustees and principals will meet Monday to discuss the possibility of summer school for Grade 10 students who fail maths this year. Reason is a new system of maths which starts next fall. The meeting will also discuss a plan to promote only students who pass in compulsory subjects and make a good showing in elective studies.

The question of warship refits is receiving "active consideration," letters from three Ottawa departments read to Victoria Labor Council said last night. The council had protested east coast refits for B.C.-based ships.

The council voted to advise member-unions to be on guard against anti-Jewish pamphlets after such a pamphlet was read by carpenters' delegate W. G. Doneley, who found it in his mailbox.

Education Minister Peterson says the high proportion of students to teachers in Greater Victoria elementary schools is due to overcrowding because the enrolment was higher than expected. His letter to the district parent-teacher council said a reduction would not be advantageous at present.

Present ratio of one-to-38 had been protested by the council; the provincial goal is one-to-35.

Cloverdale school's 50th anniversary is expected to be celebrated this year. PTA officials who asked recently for public aid in determining whether 1914 or 1919 was the founding year say most calls named 1914.

Only four of the former Colquitz employees were kept on when the building was converted to use as a prison, while "about 25 guards from Haney Correctional Institute came over here to work at the jail," he said.

"What am I going to do now?" asked Mr. X. "I've been out looking for a job but I can't find anything."

"If I don't get a job soon, I will have to apply for welfare."

Ex-B.C. Worker Faces Welfare

"If I don't get a job soon, I'll have to go on welfare."

This was the statement of a man who was fired by the provincial government when the Colquitz mental home was closed and the psychiatric nurse in his 50s was no longer needed.

The man refused to give his name when he turned to the Colonist for help last night.

SELL HOMES

He said he was one of "10 or 12" people who were fired because they turned down a chance to sell their homes and move to the mainland when the last of the mental patients were transferred from the Wilkinson Road institution.

Mr. "X", who said he is mar-

Youth No Bar To Art Expert

By TED GASKELL

Dr. Jean Sutherland Boggs looks almost too young to be an authority on anything, particularly such a complex subject as art.

But Dr. Boggs, who lectured at the Art Gallery last night on Degas, is the curator at the Toronto Art Gallery and has published a book on French Impressionist Edgar Degas.

CHOSE ART
She became interested in art as an adolescent and fortunately, she says, she had parents who let her study what she wanted and she chose art.

Dr. Boggs took her Ph.D. at Radcliffe, Harvard in 1953, and from then to 1962 she taught history of art at the University of California.

Then she went to Toronto as curator.

She spent years preparing her book on "Portraits of Degas" which contains reproductions and an extensive text of history and explanation.

GAVE IT UP

She painted when she was younger but gave it up when she decided to take up the study of art to make it her profession. Now she's making a special lecture tour of Vancouver and Victoria.

Bill Dupree Reads Alhena

Talk to Fisherman Get a Good Story

By DON GAIN

Talk to a fisherman and you'll get a good story. Take Bill Dupree, 40, who's working on his 40-foot troller Alhena at Fishermen's Wharf.

Bill's been fishing since 1955 and can't think of anything he'd rather do.

"It has its ups and downs," he said, "but you have your independence and a lot depends on the effort you put in."

TRACTOR OUTFIT

He tried his hand at logging and "running a custom tractor outfit," and took a course at an agricultural school.

"But fishing is the life for me," he said. "It's hard to picture it to anybody else but you either like the water or you don't. I like everything that goes with it, boats, navigation, the weather."

THE BIG BANK

In the fishing season you'll find him on La Perouse Bank, called the Big Bank, off the West Coast of the Island.

A shareholder in Uclulet Fishing Co. along with 20 other boat owners, he takes his catches to the company's lathouses in Uclulet.

His $14,000 boat will hold five tons of ice and an equal amount of fish, and "I can carry more than I've ever caught."

STAR'S NAME

Alhena, built in Victoria by Brian Walker, is named for a star.

"You can see it with the naked eye," Bill said. "It's the foot of one of the twins, Castor and Pollux. It's an Arabic name. I dug through the star catalogue until I found a name I liked."

'HAPPILY SINGLE'

Bill, now gradually getting ready for coho and spring fishing season, says he is "happily single," lives with his father W. S. Dupree, an old China hand, at 4036 Metcalfe Road. Bill was born in Hankow.

"Sometimes we worry when the fast new commercial freighters come humping through our fishing grounds," he said. "Our favorite anchoring ground is over a 30-fathom spot on the Big Bank and it's smack in the middle of the Great Circle route to the Orient."

Thief Nabs Church Collection

A thief stole a wooden collection box from inside St. Martin-in-the-Fields Church sometime yesterday. The church was not locked.

Church officials told police they did not believe there was much money in the box which is used by weekday worshippers.

Destroyer Returns Injured Petty Officer

A navy petty officer with a broken leg was rushed home from a training exercise off the West Coast yesterday.

X-rayed at HMCS Naden hospital was PO Raymond Gavin, 38, of 95 Cadillan, who broke his leg in a fall aboard the destroyer-escort HMCS Margaree.

All Quiet on Shipyard Front

Stillness of strike-bound Yarrows shipyard surrounds foreman while he looks out at half-finished barge. Normal noise of yard ended with completed shift Tuesday. Yesterday pickets arrived and strike began at 7 a.m. at Yarrows and Victoria Machinery Depot.—(Ryan Bros.)

Anti-Cigarette Poster

"Put it out before it's too late."

That's the advice offered by an anti-cigarette poster Health Minister Eric Martin showed members of the B.C. legislature Wednesday.

The poster, in shades of yellow, orange and red, shows a hand crushing a partly-burned cigarette into an ashtray.

Above the hand is the outline of a clock, the hands of which, Mr. Martin said, are intended to point "to the 11th hour."

The health minister said the poster, designed by his department's health services branch, has made such a hit with federal health authorities that they'd like to use it themselves.

His department didn't intend "to restrict people or prohibit them from smoking." It would only warn them of its consequences.

"The time is long past when it was needed to argue that cigarette smoking is dangerous to health."

"It was known, for instance, that cigarettes have 500 different components, each of which is a known cancer-producing agent."

"That ought to scare the daylight out of people."

Mr. Martin, who gave up smoking several years ago, had comforting words from people like federal Health Minister Lalor who find quitting the habit led to putting on weight.

"Such people needn't worry about the extra weight, he said. "It only means their cells are once again beginning to live."

Meanwhile, a New Democrat said he will move an amendment to a fellow New Democrat's private bill to warn the public of the dangers of cigarettes.

Tony Gargrave (NDP—Mackenzie) said he will seek to strike out the word "cigarette" in Alex Macdonald's (NDP—Vancouver East) bill and insert the word "tobacco."

He said he began smoking in 1952 when first elected to the legislature and quit last March. "I was helped to quit by the government-sponsored Smoking is for Fish," he said.

Smoking was the public's own business but people should be informed of the health aspects.

Aldermen Dismayed By Family Court

By IAN STREET

A group of city aldermen who toured Greater Victoria family and juvenile court yesterday expressed alarm and dismay at what they saw.

The tour was arranged by Ald. Lily Wilson, chairman of city welfare committee, who is spearheading the drive to get better facilities for the joint court.

Afterwards Mrs. Wilson took her colleagues to inspect a city-owned piece of property at the rear of the Cook Street health and welfare building in which the present makeshift court facilities are located.

NEW COURT

She wants the four municipalities and the provincial government to build a new court there so that it would be handy to the welfare services, detention home, and metro health authorities.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said this was his first visit to the court while in session.

"I must admit that I'm shocked by the overcrowded and unhealthy conditions," he said. "I think it's deplorable that we should have a waiting room with people standing two deep along the wall. It's like cattle in a pen."

ANY TAXPAYER

Ald. Edgelow said he was sure that any taxpayers who have seen conditions under which the court operates went away with similar feelings of abhorrence.

Ald. Cecil Parrott scored the lack of ventilation in the basement accommodation that was hastily made into family and juvenile court accommodation two years ago. He also noted the lack of privacy resulting from partitions without sound-proofing.

NO WONDER

"It's no wonder that many of the people who are unfortunate enough to come to the court feel they and their problems have been swept under the carpet," Ald. Parrott said. "We ought to be ashamed."

Ald. Robert Baird, a newcomer to council this year, said: "This is something that has to be seen to be believed. I'm thoroughly ashamed."

HEALTH HAZARD

"It's undignified for a court to operate under these conditions and the quarters provided for the staff are definitely a health hazard. This kind of thing can only aggravate juvenile delinquency."

Ald. Wilson said that when the new family and juvenile court was created by the B.C. government two years ago only short notice was given to find accommodation.

ONLY PLACE

The present quarters in the basement of the health and welfare building on Cook Street were picked because it was the "only place we could find at the time," she said. "We knocked out a few walls, excavated for some additional space."

"We did the best we could at the time, and at least achieved a uniformity in dealing with juvenile offenders, thus removing a cause resentment."

Ald. Wilson said it isn't possible to accommodate the family and juvenile court in new magistrate's court facilities, to be built in Centennial Square, because young offenders must be kept apart from hardened criminals.

University Governors Elected

Three members of the University of Victoria senate were elected to the board of governors last night.

New governors are Dr. Geoffrey F. Homer, surgeon, a lieutenant governor's appointee; and J. Alan Baker, solicitor, and Dr. R. N. Petrie, director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, who were both recently elected to the senate.

The election of the three new governors, brings the board up to its full complement under the Universities Act.

Balmy Day Expected After Cold Night

Temperatures were scheduled to drop to below freezing overnight in Victoria and surrounding area but a balmy 48 degrees should be reached this afternoon.

The weatherman last night predicted overnight temperatures between 25 and 32, but was not sure whether a prolonged cold snap is in store for this area.

Van Isle Lions Pledge Eyes To the Blind

All 21 members of the South Van Isle Lions Club have donated their eyes to the CNIB.

At the club's meeting last night, members signed certificates authorizing removal after death of the corneas which can be transplanted to give sight to blind people.

PRIME MOVER

Prime mover in the club's decision was William Tymchuk, member of the club and chairman of the sight conservation committee.

Mr. Tymchuk is also field secretary for the CNIB on Vancouver Island.

Signing of the cards means that the donor's eyes will be available to the eye bank upon the death of the donor.

The cards, which must be signed with the next of kin's permission, are sent to the eye bank in Vancouver.

When the donor dies, his eyes are removed within six or eight hours and the eye specialist currently heading the list is informed.

The corneas must be transplanted within 36 hours, preferably 12, so the physician would notify the person on top of his list to go to hospital immediately, even if it were the middle of the night.

The donor receives a card to show he is a donor and to inform attending physicians that his eyes have been pledged.

With Seagull

City Hot-Rods Seattle-Bound

Seven Victoria youths and seven cars intend to boost Victoria in the hot-rod world at next month's annual Seattle Roadster Show.

"We're tired of hearing outsiders say, 'Just follow the seagulls to Victoria,'" said their spokesman, 18-year-old Bob Painton, 1087 Tillicum, yesterday.

SEVEN CARS

So the boys have souped-up and styled-up seven cars, added a few extra-special display features, and are entering their work in the show.

"Before too long the phrase will be 'Follow the hot-rod to Victoria,'" said another of the group, 20-year-old Bob Robinson, 333 Irving.

SHAPE FOR SHOW

Bob's entry is a 1934 Ford with a 1948 Mercury engine. He and his father spent weeks—and $1,700—working on the car and putting her into shape for the show.

Just for the fun of it, the boys plan to put a stuffed seagull on the hood of the hot-rod.

They will ferry their seven vehicles across to Seattle late this month.

Appeal Needs Two Leaders

Increasing work loads and organizational problems have resulted this year in the continuation of a co-chairman system or the annual United Appeal in Greater Victoria.

At the annual meeting of the appeal this week Graham McCall was named to assist campaign chairman Donald Lawson in this year's drive.

REASONS WHY

Community Chest executive secretary Arthur Goff said yesterday the co-chairman system was instituted last year to allow the chairman more time for his own business and to assist in organizing the campaign, particularly when the chairman was absent.

Mr. McCall, who has been active in United Appeal work for eight years, was a division chairman in last year's campaign.

Esquimalt Votes Today

Esquimalt voters will go to the polls today to elect a school trustee, the first school election in Esquimalt for 16 years.

Two men will compete for the seat which became vacant when Douglas Hookham resigned on being transferred to Vancouver. They are Peter Bray, employed at HMCS Dockyard, and YMCA locker manager Leslie Karagians.

Only polling station is the Esquimalt municipal hall which will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Roast Leg of Lamb

One 5-6 lb. leg of lamb, 1 teaspoon rosemary, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper. Wipe the meat with a clean, damp cloth; make several slits in the top fat; sprinkle with rosemary and rub into the cut surface; place, fat side up, on rack in shallow roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer (if being used) in centre of roast so that tip of thermometer is not touching bone or fat. Roast, uncovered, until thermometer registers 170 degrees F. for well done. Allow 25 to 30 minutes per pound. Sprinkle roast with salt and pepper about halfway through roasting time.

Johnson Makes Move To Protect Consumer

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson yesterday pledged his administration to protect consumers and give the U.S. housewife the best value for "her hard-earned dollar."

In a special message to Congress, Johnson recommended a 10-point program of legislation and federal action aimed at safeguarding consumers in their spending for products and services.

Among them were recommendations for enactment of bills to insure truth-in-packaging, truth-in-lending, and truth in the sale of over-the-counter securities.

Most of the bills Johnson endorsed were recommended by President Kennedy. One new Johnson proposal was a request for legislation to require that all meat and poultry sold in the United States—in interstate as well as intrastate—be inspected for safety and wholesomeness, either by the agriculture department or in co-operation with state authorities.

White House officials emphasized the importance of Johnson's proposals to inform and educate more families, particularly in the low-income bracket, "to help them get the most for their money."

The president said he had directed his committee on consumer interests to hold a series of regional consumer conferences and report to him.

Assistant labor secretary Esther Peterson, White House consumer adviser, said she planned to invite regional meetings of a "handful" of the consumers who have been writing complaints to her. Representatives of manufacturers, retailers, advertising agencies, government agencies, and consumer groups also will attend the conferences.

Johnson said he also was asking federal agencies to explore the possibility of adapting the rural extension service concept to an urban setting. He asked the agencies to examine programs for consumer education in schools and to develop means of keeping the public informed of developments in the consumer field.

The president also stressed the need for looking into the costs of services such as repair and labor charges.

"Our record of over-all price stability in recent years has been excellent," he said. "But the trend of consumer spending for services has been constantly rising, and the safeguarding of the consumer's interest in the area of services is comparatively weak."

Johnson noted that services could not be treated in the same way as food and drugs, but are "equally subject to the abuses of poor quality, high prices and exaggerated claims."

He said he was asking his consumer group to make recommendations for improvement of protection in the service area and interested industries would be called upon for advice.

The president, referring to his new committee on consumer interests, said the consumer now has "a loud, clear-channel voice at the topmost levels of government."

He said his administration would lead an intensified campaign "to assure that the best practice of the great American market place—where free men and women buy, sell and produce—becomes common practice."

Johnson recommended legislation to:

● Extend and clarify inspection authority over foods, overthe-counter drugs, cosmetics, and therapeutic, diagnostic and prosthetic devices. Also that cosmetics be tested and proved safe before marketed and that medical devices be manufactured under conditions that assure reliability, safety and effectiveness before they are sold.

● Require that labels include warnings against avoidable accidental injury from drugs, cosmetics and pressurized containers.

● Give the department of health, education and welfare subpoena power in connection with administrative hearings under the federal food, drug and cosmetic act.

● End the present practice by which pesticides may be registered by a manufacturer "under protest" before the agriculture department has passed upon their safety.

● Grant the federal trade commission authority to issue temporary cease-and-desist orders at the outset of a proceeding, subject to review, when the commission has good reason to believe continuation of the practice would cause irreparable injury to the public.

● Insure that the consumer has access to information necessary to make a rational choice among competing packaged products.

● Require all lenders and extenders of credit to disclose to borrowers in advance the actual amount of their commitment and the annual rate of interest they will be required to pay.

● Broaden the laws requiring full disclosure of information about securities listed on securities exchanges to cover purchasers of "over-the-counter" securities who now have no such protection.

Prepare For Race

GANGES, B.C. — Plans are being made by the ladies auxiliary to Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 92, for their seventh annual Shrove Tuesday pancake race Feb. 11 at Ganges.

The race is patterned on the famous pancake race run each year in Olney, England, and was introduced to Salt Spring Island by Mrs. Ivor Williams.

Coq au Vin Good For Party Fare

Nowadays the wine and cheese tasting festivals or wine and food festivals are becoming increasingly popular. Many organizations arrange this type of function as fund-raising events, or purely and simply as entertainment for their membership.

Certainly, the people organizing such parties can let their imaginations run riot. The affair can be set up to include food and wine from one or more countries and the quarters in which the party is to be given decorated accordingly. The food can be simple but should always have a national flavor. A French theme can, for example, include Coq au Vin and here are two recipes, using either red or white wine, which can prove most useful.

COQ AU VIN

(6 Servings)
One 5-lb. roasting chicken, cut into serving pieces; flour for dredging; 1/2 cup butter; 1 slice of raw ham, chopped; 10 small white onions, peeled, left whole;

1 clove garlic, finely chopped; 1/2 tspn. thyme; 1 sprig of parsley; 1 Bay leaf; 8 whole mushrooms; salt and pepper; 1/2 cup cognac, warmed; 1 cup dry red wine.

Dredge the chicken with flour. In a skillet heat the butter, add the chicken and brown on all sides. Transfer to a casserole or Dutch oven and add the ham, onions, garlic, thyme, parsley, Bay leaf, mushrooms, salt and pepper.

Four the cognac over the chicken and ignite. When the flame dies, add the wine.

Cover the casserole and bake in a 300 degree F. oven for two and a half hours or until the chicken is tender.

Serve the Coq au Vin with good fresh French bread and a tossed green salad and a comfortable red wine.

COQ AU VIN ALSATION

One 5-lb. chicken, cut into serving pieces; 10 small white onions, peeled and left whole; 1 cup sliced mushrooms; 1/2 cup cognac, warmed; 1/2 cup butter; salt and pepper; 3 tbsps. freshly chopped parsley; 1 cup dry white wine.

Clean and dry the pieces of chicken and saute in butter in a good casserole. When browned on all sides add the cognac and ignite. When the cognac flames die out, add the remaining ingredients, cover the casserole and cook in a 300 degree F. oven for two and a half hours or until tender.

With the Alsation Coq au Vin, I like to serve a good green vegetable, broccoli or green beans, and, of course, good bread.

Bon appetit!

Local Women Join In World Prayers

Church women in Victoria and surrounding areas will participate in a global observance of the World Day of Prayer Friday.

In rural areas, villages, towns and cities in over 3,500 centres across Canada, women of different denominations will gather together to take part in a service which has been prepared this year by Mile. Madeleine Barot of France.

In 1940 Mile. Barot sought to help the victims of war who were interned in concentration camps in Occupied France. She succeeded in getting interned so that she might work inside the prisons where she had been denied entrance. Today she works in the World Council of Churches and has chosen the theme of this service, "Let us Pray."

In 1963 the all-Canadian offering of $60,000 was used for worthy missionary causes in 15 other countries of the world. In Canada financial help was given to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, the John Milton Society, Canadian Bible Society, the Gideon Society, Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, Student Christian Movement, and many other causes.

Tape Talking Book on View

Well-known Victorians Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Warren celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, Sunday. Eighteen members of their family were present at the dinner held at the Dominion Hotel and later there was a gathering at the home of their youngest son, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Warren, 999 Ridgway. Two married granddaughters, Mr. and Mrs. F. Hallier of North Surrey and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Henson, were present, as were their older sons, Charles and Garfield. Mr. and Mrs. Warren were both born in Cornwall, England. They met in Victoria and were married in Seattle. Mr. Warren served as Saanich councillor for 10 years and reeve for seven years. He was vice-president of the Union of B.C. Municipalities for several years.

Members and guests of the Robert Burns McKicking Chapter IODE received a first hand view of the "tape talking book" at their annual meeting Tuesday evening in the Colony Motel. Special guest, Mr. W. A. Tymchuk, field secretary for CNIB in Victoria, demonstrated the recently developed reading device for the blind, which was pioneered in Great Britain.

"It is the greatest innovation since Louis Braille's raised dots," he said. Other special guests were Mrs. Tymchuk and Mrs. Peter Bell, IODE municipal regent.

The secretary's report, read by Mrs. B. Pollard in absence of Mrs. Earl Reid, indicated the chapter's continuing interest in the blind. In addition to the spring and fall teas to raise money, hampers were distributed at Christmas to a number of blind persons and their families. Assistance, both for personal and financial aid were also met by the members.

Members of services at home and abroad committee, under convener of Miss Agnes Stewart, sent clothing for overseas relief, did their share of Veterans' Hospital work and carried out their part in the Cross of Sacrifice ceremony.

To raise funds the chapter participated in the spring festival, held a rummage sale, coffee party and amorgasbord, and a bridge tea.

Educational report was given by Miss Constance Chow for the educational secretary, the late Mrs. Frances Barnes.

In the report Miss Chow pointed out that the Antiguan Girls' High School continues to be one of the chapter's most gratifying projects. Twenty-four library books and three long-play records were sent to the school with a total of $54.77 being spent on the project.

Bursaries of $100 each were given to the Misses Susan Lancaster and Heather Church. An additional bursary for $100 was presented at the coffee party in June to David Palmer, a promising young musician.

A Dulcie Fowler Memorial Bursary for $100 will be given each year by the chapter in memory of the late Mrs. Fowler, who was a past regent.

The treasurer's report, read by Mrs. M. L. Balagno, showed that a total of $360 had been spent on the chapter's educational work, and $334 went towards services at home and abroad. Funds in the bank, to date, total $1,344.

Other reports were given by Mrs. E. Lowthian, standard bearer; Miss Stewart, services at home and abroad; Miss Allison Chow, shoes secretary, and the various committee conveners.

Mrs. J. T. A. Fox was named regent for the second year. Other officers elected were

Mrs. A. McFarlane and Mrs. W. L. Williams, first and second vice-regent; Mrs. B. Pollard, secretary; Mrs. E. H. Mrs. W. J. Bromley, services bearer. Councillors are Mrs. S. Powell, Mrs. W. M. Sick, Mrs. Ida Major, Mrs. W. Bruce Speer, Misses Mary Edgar, Kay Shaw, Agnes Stewart and Laura Tebo.

Balenciaga Retains Look of Elegance

By ALINE MOSEY

PARIS (UPI) — Many buyers today gave the spring fashion designs of Cristobal Balenciaga top rating in the showings that ended yesterday.

The Spanish-born Balenciaga barred the press from his salon and will not make his designs public until next month, after buyers have received their orders. But many who attended called the collection "the best in Paris."

Buyers who saw Balenciaga's spring designs said there were few radical changes and no specific "look"—only a continuation of his usual elegance.

The collection featured a two-thirds length for suit sleeves, cocktail dresses with matching capes, and many-colored raincoats, they said.

His newest suit had a three-quarter length jacket over a skirt and blouse. The buyers liked one green suit with rounded shoulders and a bell-like shape. His straight raincoats of poplin in blue and green as well as traditional beige brought applause from the buyers.

But the favorite of the crowd was a mustard yellow suede coat with a leather belt loosely tied at the waist.

His coats were generally loose and straight, with shoulders natural.

Most of his afternoon dresses were two-piece outfits with overblouses, some low but others high.

Others were draped high above the waist in front and dipping down in the back. Many were in huge flowered printed silks.

In both daytime and evening dresses, Balenciaga ignored the plunging neckline fad in Paris. His necklines were U-shaped, slightly lower in back than in front. No dresses were entirely sleeveless, the fabric extending at least partly over the shoulder.

Buyers noted that Balenciaga used smooth surface fabrics and practically ignored mohair and tweeds. He showed a lot of navy blue, as did Saint Laurent and Antonio Castillo, confirming that this once conventional color will be considered "chic" this spring.

Famous London designer Norman Hartnell, who has created many royal fashions, showed these two evening dresses at his spring collection. ## Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl, 16, who is scared to death. Don't tell me to talk to my mother because I've never been able to talk to her about anything.

I've been dating since I was 13 and thought I knew my way around. Now I'm in serious trouble and I don't know which way to turn.

The boy who got me pregnant says he knows of two other guys who could have been responsible. According to him that's all the court needs to let him off. When he said this I was so hurt I wanted to die.

Last night he brought me the name of a pill written on a slip of paper. He says three of these pills will correct the situation. Are these pills dangerous, Ann? Will they work? Please put this in the paper. If your answer came to my house, my folks would kill me.—MISS DESPERATE.

Dear Miss: You use the phrase "correct the situation" as if you were talking about a case of fallen arches. The "situation" you refer to involves a life. And the "correction" you speak of so casually is called an abortion.

The word from here is NO! I repeat, NO! Don't take pills or any other kind of medication. Tell your mother about your condition at once. And if you want a list of homes for unwanted mothers in or near your city, please let me know and I will send it immediately.

Dear Ann Landers: Gill and I have been married three months. I'm afraid we'll be divorced before we celebrate even one anniversary.

Whenever we are with friends and I start to tell something, Gill interrupts me with: "It wasn't that way at all. It was like this." Then he takes my story over and I feel two inches high.

Our friends must think I'm the world's biggest liar, or a nitwit. It's humiliating to be contradicted and chopped dead. I'd rather be slapped in the face.

KIWANIANES
Kiwaniis will hold a dinner meeting at the Ingraham Hotel Wednesday, Feb. 12, at 7 p.m. Mr. Bruce Leyden will show color slides of "Tahiti—Paradise of the Pacific."

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

MONTREAL, February 6.—What every mother knows! Children can be "wild Indians" when kept indoors by bad weather. The ideal solution is to give your Indians a reservation of their own—a rumpus room! (They're great for your own home entertaining, too!) If you have space in the cellar or attic you can have one built right away through a BANK OF MONTREAL.

MONTREAL Home Improvement Loan, Carpenters, electricians and plumbers are less busy in this "off" season... so now is the time to start your home improvement project. See the people at your neighbourhood branch of "My Bank"... they will be glad to discuss a low-cost Bank of Montreal H.I.L. with you.

TALK ABOUT SOMETHING GOOD TO EAT... have you ever tasted LIBBY'S SAUERKRAUT? Don't wait any longer to enjoy this wonderful taste treat. The crisp, mellow flavor of Libby's Sauerkraut is always just right... hot or cold! What's more, it's one of the most healthful and economical vegetables you can serve. Serve it cold in salads or sandwiches, or hot with meat. But be sure not to overcook it... just warm it through... this way you'll preserve the healthful goodness of its lactic acid content. Do treat your family to Libby's Sauerkraut—soon. It's a real "bargain" in good health and flavour.

I'VE FOUND A WAY to put new interest into breakfast with easy-to-eat GRAPE-NUTS. Try Grape-Nuts for a change. New, improved Grape-Nuts is the concentrated breakfast cereal with food energy in every spoonful. Made from wheat, Grape-Nuts provides a tasty and nourishing base on which to start the day. My first spoonful told me Grape-Nuts was like no other cereal... rich, nut-sweet and crunchy. When you're tired of the taste and texture of ordinary cereals—reach for Grape-Nuts. It provides the flavour-lift you want to bring a welcome change of pace to the breakfast menu. Start your day a little bit better with a cereal fresh from POOL GRAPE-NUTS!

Furnishings

Jubilee WA Donates $10,000

It was announced that $10,000 had been donated for furnishings in the new wing of the Royal Jubilee Hospital when the hospital's Women's Auxiliary held its annual meeting in the nurses' residence, recently. In addition, $100 was donated for colored telephones in the wards.

Mrs. Glen Coffey, president, reported the purchase of a high humidity oxygen tent and baby scales. As in previous years, Florence Nightingale Jumps had been donated for the nursing students' capping ceremony.

Mrs. F. E. Loveday announced the decision to buy 65 plastic cribs and mattresses for the maternity wing. These would cost $1,966.

Treasurer, Mrs. A. Deas announced receipts of $12,166.53. Total expenditures amounted to $8,670.60.

Mrs. F. D. Lee reported that $1,736.56 had been received from television rentals, $1,614.26 from baby photographs and $694.32 from sale of items in the maternity ward showcase.

Members of the auxiliary had canvassed for the "Conquer Cancer" campaign, collecting $315.

Mrs. W. G. Thorpe announced 46,184 dressings made by members while Mrs. G. R. Metcalfe reported 1,848 packages made.

Auxiliary's work also included decoration of maternity wards at Christmas and silver spoons given to babies born during the season. In addition, gifts were given to patients.

There are 65 active and 67 associate members.

Mrs. Coffey was re-elected for a second term. Serving with her will be: First and second vice-president, Mrs. D. Riach and Mrs. R. J. Harwood; correspondence, Mrs. J. C. D. Keane; recording secretary, Miss Edna Wallace and membership convener, Mrs. S. C. Gray.

Special guests at the meeting included George Masters, hospital administrator; Dr. J. L. Murray Anderson, medical administrator; Mrs. M. Lawrence, St. John's Ambulance Brigade; Miss Muriel Thompson, director of nursing; Miss Elizabeth Moore, director of nursing education, and Miss Margaret Plumlett, supervisor of the maternity wing.

Canon R. K. Sampson gave the devotional.

ALLIANCE FRANCAISE
Three students of the University of Victoria, Jane Massey, Micheline Paquette and Darryl Short, will give a talk at the meeting of Alliance Francaise Feb. 10, at 3 p.m. in the Art Gallery.

Skirts Stay Put At Knee

PARIS (AP)—Only two things are sure in Paris fashion for this spring and summer—hemlines are holding at knee-cover, and everybody loves pleats. All the rest is up for grabs. Necklines can be high or low and so can waistlines. There are dozens of delightful little decisions to be made in the matter of detail. The showings that ended Tuesday were full of ideas and full of contradictions.

Doman's Wins Second Award

Top honors for the second time in two years have gone to the Victoria retail store of Doman's Lumber Company Limited, in the nation-wide merchandising contest in conjunction with 1963 National Forest Products Week.

As last year, the entry was submitted by store manager Mike F. Jiggins. The company will be presented with a special plaque for its contribution to the wood products industry.

WOOD PRODUCTS

A Toronto business magazine, Building Supply Dealer, sponsored the award to encourage Canadian retailers in the promotion and merchandising of wood products during National Forest Products Week last October.

The independent panel of judges were impressed with Doman's free distribution of tree seedlings for planting, and selected the firm as winner from many across Canada.

Wildlife Film

Wildlife photographer Emerson Scott will present the fourth in a series of Audubon Wildlife Films Wednesday and Thursday, February 12 and 13, 8 p.m. at Oak Bay Junior High School auditorium. His subject will be "Our changing heritage."

Rowebottom Funeral On Friday

Funeral service will be held Friday at 3 p.m. in Sands funeral home, for Mrs. Ethel Amelia Rowebottom, widow of former deputy minister of trade and industry, Edwin George Rowebottom.

Mrs. Rowebottom, who was 71, died Tuesday. She lived at 1400 Newport Avenue.

Her late husband entered provincial government service in 1934 as deputy minister of trade and industry. He retired from this post in 1954.

Mrs. Rowebottom is survived by two sons, Howard G. San Francisco and Lorne E. Ottawa, sisters Mrs. Muriel Pankhurst, Victoria and Mrs. W. P. Beal, Vancouver, brother W. Blake, Victoria and two granddaughters, Victoria and Kim, both San Francisco.

After Lonely Night

Quarrelling Lover Pays, Apologizes

A lovers' quarrel Tuesday ended in a lonely night for one of the participants.

William Evans, 1234 Richmond, was jailed overnight for obstructing a police officer who had attempted to break up an argument Evans was having with his fiancée.

He was fined $100 in magistrate's court yesterday on the obstruction charge.

The policeman told the court Evans would not let the girl get out of a taxi on Johnson Street during the argument.

The officer said Evans had been drinking and was hostile toward police at the time.

After the fine was imposed, Evans apologized and shook hands with Const. Bonar Hanney, the man who arrested him.

Damaging Storm Drives East Across Prairies

EDMONTON (CP)—A violent wind and snow storm drove eastward across the prairies Wednesday, blocking district roads with huge drifts and causing heavy damage with gusts to 70 miles an hour.

The storm swept into Alberta from the northwest. It flung up to 4.6 inches of snow on the ground and ripped into Calgary to smash at least 20 large windows, blow over street corner mail boxes, wrench traffic lights from support cables, shred plastic sheeting around construction projects, and tear down power lines and tree limbs.

NO ONE HURT

No one was reported injured.

A weather warning was issued for the southern portions of Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Residents were warned in the Regina, Weyburn, Yorkton, Brandon and Dauphin regions that they could expect winds in excess of 40 miles an hour later in the day that, combined with light snow, would make travel dangerous.

STAY HOME

In southwestern Saskatchewan RCMP warned motorists to stay home Wednesday as winds gusted to 65 miles an hour and a section of Swift Current was blocked out for half an hour when the wind ripped down a power line.

Snow-plugged roads forced at least 26 schools to close, 14 in Saskatchewan and 12 in Alberta. Creek area of southwestern Alberta while an Indian hunter was lost in rugged mountain country 50 miles southwest of Lethbridge. Wallace Scout was located Wednesday by a search party 20 hours after he became separated from three companions.

In Saskatchewan, five of 16 schools were closed in the Saskatoon East unit—at Aberdeen, Hanley, Clavet, Bainsville and Vonda—and eight in the Saskatoon West unit—at Okeana, Edsall, Brownell, Penner, Vanocoy, Donovan, Swanson and Anquith.

The storm struck the Pincher Creek area of southwestern Alberta while an Indian hunter was lost in rugged mountain country 50 miles southwest of Lethbridge. Wallace Scout was located Wednesday by a search party 20 hours after he became separated from three companions.

Scout was reported suffering no ill effects.

In Edmonton, early-morning wind gusts to 38 miles an hour, heaped snow into drifts that blocked sidewalks and roads.

Boon to Vancouver

Anniversary for Oronsay

When the 28,000-ton P & O Orient liner Ss. Oronsay sails into Vancouver Saturday, it will mark the 10th anniversary of the line's service linking Vancouver with points around the world.

It was the Oronsay—then the new pride of the Orient line fleet—which made the first experimental voyage across the Pacific.

Since the service began 10 years ago, the line has handled a total of 166,612 passengers, either disembarking, embarking or in transit at Vancouver. Estimated average spending per passenger in Vancouver during that time was $25 — a total of $4,165,300. Staff payrolls have totalled, including payments to B.C. travel agents, $1,792,000.

Total passenger and line spending was $8,289,850 and average spending per voyage during 119 voyages was $69,662.

A special civic luncheon to honor the liner's officers and crew will be held on Sunday.

Sports Car Races Set for 1964

G. B. Sterne represented the Victoria Motor Sports Club as executive board members and officers met recently for the first time to discuss the nine-event 1964 sports car racing program of the International Conference of Northwest Sports Clubs in Seattle.

The nine sports car championship meets will be staged at courses in Vancouver, Seattle, Spokane and Portland.

The five ICNSCC clubs, which include the Victoria Motor Sports Club, will be responsible for the race programs.

Troops Grab Gun-Toters

MONTREAL (UPI)—A quick way to get in trouble these days is to walk past a Montreal armory with a gun in hand.

Two unidentified teenagers did just that and found themselves surrounded by armed soldiers who had been on guard since a teen-age gang raided a downtown armory last week and escaped with a small arsenal of weapons.

The two teen-agers were on their way home from a rifle club.

SMIDGENS

IT'S AMAZING! HOW MARRIED LIFE CHANGES A PERSON!

BEFORE I GOT MARRIED, I WAS LONELY, I WAS SHUFFLE, I WAS A BUM!

NOW I'M NOT LONELY ANYMORE!

WINNING CONTRACT

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

Most players are glad to have a chance to over-ruff, but this is often poor play. With a holding such as king-ten-jack, the advantage of not overruffing the queen or jack is fairly obvious. It was less obvious in today's deal when West had to reject a chance to make a trick with a small trump.

Players who do not open the bidding with a four-card major suit would bid one diamond with the South hand, but one spade with a sound opening which provides a good rebid in all circumstances. The two diamond rebid over two clubs was better than two no trump, which would show a slightly stronger hand.

Three spades was the right bid for North whether or not the bid is treated as forcing, a point on which expert opinions differ. Prospects of game are very good, but from North's angle three spades could be high enough opposite a bare minimum opening bid.

South should have bid three no trump over three spades, relying on North to persevere in spades if he held four-card support.

Declarer took the opening lead with the heart ace over East's queen, and realized that he could not hope for a successful cross-ruff. He planned to establish and use dummy's clubs, and therefore led three rounds immediately. He ruffed the third round with the spade four, and said a trap for West. An overruff would have allowed declarer to make his contract; he would have been able to draw all the missing trumps, ending in dummy to run the clubs. But West refused to overruff, and when declarer led trumps in the hope of finding a 3-3 division, he was down two.

Austrian Juggler Farsick

Auto Show Star Has Word for It

By KEN JOHNSON

Most people who move away from their hometown get homesick—but not Carl Farsick. He gets "farsick."

That's my word for the opposite of homesick," the six-foot, Austrian-born entertainer said yesterday.

So it's perhaps a good thing Carl is in show business—as a juggler. Carl, who at present hails from Pacific Palisades, Calif., is one of the stage show stars at this week's International Auto Show in the Memorial Arena.

NEIGHBORS

But even with a house on the beach, neighbors like Joseph Cotton, Francis X. Bushman and Richard Boone, and a chance to go travelling whenever a show comes along, Carl has to admit he does think about his native Austria.

Especially at times like now, when the Winter Olympics are going on in his home town of Innsbruck.

THREE A DAY

In fact, between the three-day shows at the arena, Carl, himself a keen athlete, keeps in touch with the Olympics on the radio.

What does Carl think of Victoria?

"So far it's great," he said. "Much better than the Hollywood rat race. I'd like to own a little island out here somewhere."

PINGPONG BALLS

If you haven't caught Carl's act, it includes hat juggling and a unique mouth-juggling display with pingpong balls. Carl has appeared on television as a circus entertainer in The Greatest Show On Earth series and has also done stunt-work for The Roaring Twenties.

In the next dressingroom are a versatile duo who do trick cycling and juggling.

AND TWIST

Tom Howe and Marie McDonald come from Vancouver. They do a new act that should appeal to teenagers. Balanced high on their unicycles they do the rumba, rock 'n' roll and twist.

Marie's specialty is a cup balancing act. She can flick as many as six cups and saucers, spoon and lump of sugar onto a pile on her head... while balanced on a unicycle.

LOCAL WINNER

Tom is former Canadian cycling champ. In Victoria in the 1940s, Tom won the Moody Cup Race at Beacon Hill Park and came second in the senior bike race.

B.C. Festival Entries Close Soon

Entries close Feb. 15 for the Kiwanis B.C. music competition festival in Vancouver April 24 to May 2.

Festival offices are at 510 Province Building, Vancouver 3, and at Modern Music, 330 Seymour Street, Vancouver 2. The festival will have three British adjudicators, Robert Irwin, vocal; Leslie Regan, choral; and Leslie Murdoch, instrumental; Irene Bubniuk, instrumental, from Winnipeg, and Dr. F. L. D. Andrea from Bellingham, string classes.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada isn't inviting Communist China to the 1967 world's fair in Montreal because it doesn't formally recognize the Peking government, an external affairs department spokesman says. He was commenting on a Montreal report that China was interested in taking part in the fair.

Bryer was sentenced to 14 days for drunk driving.

Plays Next Week

American Dream Comes to Varsity

"It's a satire on the most vulnerable facets of American life — old age, momism, social workers, psychology, the youth complex, sex and even cannibalism."

This was how director Tony Jenkins described Edward Albee's The American Dream, one of the two plays to be presented by the University of Victoria Players' Club next week.

SOCIAL WORKER

Cast is composed of Rosalyn Coleman as Mummy, Gordon Harris as Daddy, Gillian Farr as Grandma and Leida Grant as the social worker. The American Dream, handsome, virile and materialistic, is played by Gerry Schofield.

The second play, Harold Pinter's A Slight Ache, "starts as a comedy then slowly turns to something which, if not tragedy, has a certain grim wryness about it," Mr. Jenkins said.

MATCH SELLER

The two central characters, played by Jane Turner and Michael Stephen, disclose their true natures by the way they react to a wasp and a match seller, played by Horace Mayea.

The plays run from Monday to Saturday next week at 8:30 p.m. in the Gordon Head theatre hut.

Tickets are on sale at the Lansdowne campus, the Student Union Building, Munro's Book Store and at the door.

Martin Legion Leader

Annual general meeting of the Royal Canadian Legion in Sooke elected James H. Martin president this week.

James Gore and C. V. F. Barker were elected vice-presidents with Don Morrison, secretary-treasurer and H. A. Caldwell, master-at-arms. Directors are Samuel Sadosenko, M. O. Collette, Frank Rumsby, Robert Walters and Stan Barron.

Mrs. Don Morrison was elected president of the legion's auxiliary for a fourth term.

Mrs. William Lock is vice president. Mrs. A. K. Fein, secretary; Mrs. J. H. Martin, Mrs. Stan Barron and Mrs. Robert Walters, past president are directors, with Mrs. P. W. Taylor as honorary president.

Informality, Thought Symposium Keynotes

Topics of discussion for the University of Victoria's academic symposium are intended to encourage informal discussion and thought among the delegates, and it is likely that they will.

Guest speaker Dr. Malcolm McGregor, head of the Classics department at the University of British Columbia, will speak on A View from the Agora. Bishop Remi de Roo will discuss Private Citadels and Holy Cities.

FACULTY MEMBERS

Two faculty members and two students will debate whether Ignorance is Bliss.

and a panel will ponder Number or Name: Mass or Class?

The closing panel will discuss The Age of Anxiety in an attempt to form some conclusions about the topic of the symposium—The Profile of the Student in the Age of the Atom and Anxiety.

TWO DAYS

Seventy-eight University of Victoria students will leave Friday, Feb. 21, for the two-day conference to be held in Parksville.

Four UBC students will attend, along with 13 University of Victoria faculty members.

World's Most Beautiful Harbor?

By JACK FREY

Victoria MLA J. Donald Smith unfolded a proposal yesterday for a Victoria waterfront complex which would house a provincial museum, a maritime museum, the provincial archives and the old RCMP vessel St. Roch which traversed the Northwest Passage.

Speaking to the legislature, he said the CPR property northwest of the legislature would be the logical location for such a development which, coupled with improvement of the Causeway area, would make the Inner Harbor "the most beautiful harbor in the world."

He disagreed with a suggestion by Works Minister

Chant that the museum be built in Beacon Hill Park. "I would certainly recommend against considering our very lovely Beacon Hill Park for this museum," said Mr. Smith.

A museum in the park would "mar the beauty" of the park, he added.

The waterfront museum could be completed by 1967, in time for the Confederation centenary. One of its first exhibits should be the historic St. Roch.

The boat now in Vancouver where it is "deteriorating year after year," and Vancouver city council apparently is disinterested in preserving it, said the MLA.

There would be plenty of space for parking near the CPR site, and a bridge probably will be built between

James Bay and Victoria West sometime in the future making it easier to reach the new waterfront museum complex, Mr. Smith said.

The latest proposal for providing the B.C. Maritime Museum in Esquimalt with larger, downtown quarters, is for a move into the old law courts building in Bastion Square. This plan is under active consideration.

Colquitz School

Retarded Helped

On Island

By TERRY HAMMOND

A provincial school for retarded children will be built on the grounds of the former Colquitz mental hospital, Health Minister Martin announced yesterday.

He made the announcement in a speech to the legislature and elaborated later in an interview.

The school will be patterned on Woodlands, the provincial home for the retarded in New Westminster.

Mr. Martin said planning for the institution will start as soon as the government's mental hospitals design group has completed plans for the mental health centre to be built adjacent to Royal Jubilee Hospital.

HEAVY FEE

The minister's announcement came at a time when his department is under heavy fire for having failed to keep pace with the need for accommodation of the mentally retarded. He said the Colquitz home would be smaller than the 1,400-bed Woodlands home but couldn't say how much smaller.

Snake Pit Heart Warmer

In 1956 Leo Nimick (NDP—Cranbrook) borrowed the title from a once-famous book on insane asylums and branded the Colquitz mental home a "snake pit."

Yesterday Mr. Martin told the legislature how happy he was to have finally closed the Colquitz institution.

Canada in Fight Mike Tells U.S.

NEW YORK (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson Wednesday night told a 1,200-member New York audience — all of them concerned with mental health — that important developments are occurring in Canada in the fight against retardation. "We, like you, are spurred by the prospect of achieving 55 per cent success in giving to the retarded, useful community lives," Pearson was speaking to the annual awards dinner of the Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr. Foundation, an organization established in 1946 to help in the battle against mental retardation. He referred to the programs being undertaken by the 19 provincial associations for retarded children and the plans of each province to undertake a major research project for Canada's Centenary. The volunteers would be assisted by governments, industry, universities and foundations.

Coroner Vs. Doctors

Police Seek Hospital-Death Evidence

TORONTO (CP) — Police of the Metropolitan Toronto homicide squad began gathering evidence Wednesday for a coroner's inquest into the death of a woman in hospital here, last November 18, days after an operation. An autopsy had revealed a surgical clamp in her abdomen.

Coroner Dr. Gerald Blanchet, ordered by Ontario Attorney General Fred Cas to hold the inquest, said the police were called in because of their interview methods. It did not suggest foul play.

The attorney-general ordered the inquest into the death of Patricia Morgan, 32, a cancer patient, in Toronto East General Hospital after a public demand for it by Dr. Morton Shulman, chief coroner, who has been pushing investigations into deaths in hospitals here. Dr. Shulman, appointed last year, has charged interference by members of the medical profession and his government superiors and has demanded a public inquiry into the coroner's inquest system.

Miss Morgan's death came to light last week after a sister asked Dr. Shulman about it. The hospital's board of governors also has launched an investigation into her death and operating-room procedures.

Dr. Morton disclosed that the surgical instrument had been left in the woman's abdomen after one doctor had started to operate on her, had been called away and was replaced by another surgeon.

Dr. Kenneth A. Brown, 65, who started the operation, said he has not been permitted to use facilities of the East General Hospital since the operation.

Dr. Brown said he had operated on Miss Morgan three months earlier to remove a cancerous condition in her stomach and intestines and performed the Oct. 18 operation for a "second look."

He said he started the operation but did not finish it. He said he was interrupted by a senior official of the hospital and the operation was completed by another doctor. The name of the second doctor has not been disclosed.

There has been no public explanation of the interruption. Dr. Shulman said he understood the autopsy showed no cancer in the body, though the death certificate signed by Dr.

Brown gave cancer of the stomach and acute intestinal obstruction as the cause of death.

Dr. Shulman said Dr. Stewart Penny, the hospital pathologist who conducted the autopsy, told him the obstruction referred to in his report was the clamp. The instrument is a forceps that doubles as a clamp.

Dr. Brown said he had not been shown a copy of the autopsy report and had made out the death certificate as accurately as he could on the basis of information available to him.

Dr. Shulman said the death had not been reported to him officially and Dr. H. B. Cotnam, supervising coroner for Ontario, said "it looks as if this was a reportable death and someone is certainly at fault in not reporting it."

Mothers Fear Heathman

VERNON (CP) — Mrs. Warren McIntyre, mother of three, launched a petition Wednesday protesting the proposed release of confessed child-slayer Charles Heathman from Esquimalt. She said response to the petition has been "almost 100 per cent" and a special door-to-door canvass for signatures is planned tonight. "Most of the women I've spoken to... are genuinely concerned about the safety of their children," she said.

French Sign With Reds

PARIS (AP) — France has made another stride toward increased trade with the Communist world by signing a pact with Poland and repudiating another in the making for the Soviet Union.

Both agreements would benefit French exports but officials said the goal—to which Poland and the Soviet Union agree—is an increase of two-way trade.

FOUR YEARS
No sooner had French and Polish officials toasted their signatures Wednesday at a special luncheon than Italy announced that it, too, was boosting trade with the Soviet Union. The French-Polish pact calls for the sale of 600,000 to 800,000 tons of French grain.

OTTAWA (CP) — The Progressive Conservatives wound up their annual convention Wednesday after a day-long debate on party policy during which they turned their back on tax reductions.

Only a handful of the 3,353 persons who registered for the 2½-day gathering were on hand in the 775-seat convention hall for the adjournment.

FLOOR REVOLT

But earlier in the day sparks erupted when George Nowlan, former finance minister, led a revolt from the floor against a suggestion that the party go on record as advocating tax cuts.

Mr. Nowlan and two other former cabinet ministers spearheaded a successful attack on tax-cut plank submitted to the party's annual meeting by the resolutions committee.

SHOW OF HANDS

The committee's spokesman, E. A. Goodman, Toronto, finally accepted a set of Nowlan changes and declared another, proposed by Senator Wallace McCutcheon, former trade minister, adopted after a show-of-hands vote.

The action came the day after party leader John Diefenbaker issued a plea for tax cuts in a major address to the convention.

Speaking of future policy, Mr. Diefenbaker told the convention Tuesday the party "should pursue the expansion of development."

HAVE TO ACT

"Today that expansion requires reductions of taxation because of what is happening in the United States. If the Johnson administration reduces taxes, we will have to take action in that regard. Otherwise we will not be competitive."

His argument was referred to directly in the debate on the proposed tax-cut program by professional economist Robert Clarke who argued U.S. cuts would not make American manufacturers more competitive with Canadian.

While the party's economic

Cypriots Fight Again

NICOSIA (Reuters) — Turkish-Cypriot officials reported renewed fighting Wednesday in the village of Kitima, near Paphos, resulting in the death of one Greek-Cypriot.

The officials said two Turkish and two Greek-Cypriots were wounded in the clash before British troops moved into the area.

A British military spokesman said a neutral zone had been set up in the village but the situation there was still "very, very tense."

SOME HOSTAGES

Unconfirmed reports reaching troops-headquarters here said 30 Turkish and 15 Greek-Cypriots were reported missing or taken hostage Wednesday.

The apparent violation of the cease-fire agreement arranged Christmas Eve came as United States women and children were evacuated from this tense Mediterranean island.

On another front, developments were awaited on a proposed NATO peace-keeping force for the divided republic.

Third Yard Shut Today

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

Further talks are to be held today in Vancouver in hopes of ending the B.C. shipyards strikes, which will spread to Burrard Drydock during the day.

Representatives of the shipyards and 22 unions met in Vancouver all day yesterday with deputy labor minister William Sands. A further meeting was scheduled for 3 p.m. today.

600 AT BURREARD

Pickets were expected to be set up at Burrard at 7 a.m., when 600 Burrard employees were to join 1,400 already on strike at VIMD and Yarrow's here. (See picture, Page 18.)

The strike at the Victoria yards began at 7 a.m. yesterday. William Stewart of the Marine Workers and Boiler-makers' Industrial Union (I.U.) said in Vancouver: "It looks as if we'll be out in the morning at Burrard."

Mr. Sands said there had been no specific agreement at yesterday's meeting but, "I have a feeling that progress has been achieved today." He

Brave New World of 1984

By JOHN DAVY, from London

The New Scientist has launched a series of articles in which various distinguished scientists are invited to look forward 20 years, and consider where science will stand in 1984.

Easily the most urgent contributor so far is Professor Joshua Lederberg, Nobel prize winner and professor of genetics at Stanford University, California. He believes that we have not yet woken up to the peculiar crisis which current development in biology may generate.

Brave New World

The crux of the matter is that we may soon be able to manipulate complex organisms—notably man—with some of the confidence and skill hitherto only applicable to inanimate objects and materials.

For example, within 20 years, Dr. Lederberg says, it may have become relatively easy to transplant various vital organs, including hearts, livers or complex limbs.

The demand seems certain to outrun the supply. How is the "market" in spare parts to be organized? Who should decide whether the organs of a newly dead person may be transplanted in someone else?

The ruthless logic of the situation would be to declare all corpses state property, to be plundered by the surgeons as necessary. Large "banks" of deep frozen organs might be built up.

But the issue goes beyond logic. Deep-rooted feelings, beliefs and customs will be involved. Doctors will face terrible dilemmas—which patients should receive organs in short supply?

Dr. Lederberg believes we should start to think about these problems now, rather than when they hit us in an acute form.

Because of these developments and other discoveries, old age and death may be considerably postponed. Here, too, Dr. Lederberg argues, considerable social and economic stresses could be set up. It will become, quite simply, more expensive to keep people alive.

If organ transplants become routine, complex teams of surgeons, anaesthetists and nurses will still be needed for each operation. Hospital beds will be occupied during recovery. Yet huge numbers of lives might be prolonged by such operations.

What price will the community be prepared to pay to add 10 or 20 years, say, to its citizens' expectation of life?

More far-reaching still is the prospect—admittedly still distant—of manipulating the unborn foetus or infant to control sex, enhance intelligence or other characteristics.

What effect will it have on family life if it is fairly easy to determine the sex of a child? Suppose the parents are allowed to choose, but this leads to a big excess of males or females. Should the state step in?

Brave New World

Suppose, too, that intelligence could be chemically controlled, and every parent demanded that their child be pushed up to near-genius level. Or that aggressive impulses could be permanently eliminated.

Such developments would affect individuals much more intimately than atomic bombs or space rockets, penetrating right into family and personal life. Whether the fabric of society would survive such jolts without fearful rents appearing seems far from certain.

Finally, Dr. Lederberg says, it might become possible to breed "clones" of genetically identical individuals, just as stable strains of plants are produced by grafting and vegetative reproduction. Such strains could be guaranteed free of inherited diseases and defects, sex-controlled, with predictable IQs, etc.

Dr. Lederberg says that he has been accused of "demonic advocacy" for discussing such matters "and not pretending they are infinitely far off." Many people may feel that it would be better if they stayed far off.

Brave New World

On the other hand, they are intimately linked, as Dr. Lederberg says, with the treatment of mental illness, old age, degenerative diseases, and mental retardation. The research to solve these problems is just that which may place huge and uncomfortable new powers in men's hands.

These problems, Dr. Lederberg concludes, are "too important to be left only to biologists." The deeper understanding of human biology now opening up must be "part of the insight of literary, political, social economic and moral teaching."

He dedicates his article "to the memory of the prophetic vision and artistic clarity of Aldous Huxley," author of Brave New World (in which humans are grown in bottles) who died last year.

Park-for-Park Swap Makes Sense

Let's Trade Sites

By IAN STREET

The city can, if it wishes, exchange the proposed Beacon Hill museum site for a park site only a stone's throw from the Inner Harbor.

The possibility of this "park-for-park" swap makes Mr. Chant's proposal well worth considering.

The initial reaction within city hall to the bombshell that part of Beacon Hill Park should be given over to a provincial museum was to say no.

But then, on second thought, this became, I don't know. There is one reassuring aspect of the whole affair. The deed of trust held by the city for Beacon Hill Park specifically states that it shall be "for the enjoyment and recreation of the public" and that control rests with the mayor and aldermen.

The key, I think, lies in the disclosure by Mr. Chant that the site generally talked of for the museum, where government employees cars are now parked at Belleville and Douglas, is too small.

This comes as a relief to those who feel that open space (by this I don't mean for parking) on the perimeter of the Inner Harbor, right on the government's front doorstep, is at a premium.

How pleasant it would be to have the area now given over to blacktop parking space transformed into green lawns and flowerbeds and cool shade trees.

This is a logical extension of Thunderbird Park and the provincial government's fine pioneer museum in the restored Helmcken house.

The government, no doubt, would be reluctant to give up this area for parking, but the city is in a position to insist on the exchange if it is willing to consider the Beacon Hill proposal.

Well, granted, most people would like to see the creation of a new downtown park in this critical central location.

But if another site has to be chosen why does it have to be in Beacon Hill Park? Wouldn't Clover Point do as well? Probably it would, but why not have the best.

As a museum site, Beacon Hill probably has few equals in the world, in order to capitalize on its potential, however, there would have to be an imaginative design.

Such a building would have to be an extension of the site—perhaps a series of low terraced buildings with picture windows and sheltered courts open to the wide sweep of Juan de Fuca Strait and the Olympics beyond.

What a backdrop this would

CITY HALL COMMENT

make for the exhibits in the museum. No need for paint-and-plaster dioramas here.

It would be unthinkable to have a building like the new Victoria courthouse on this lovely spot.

There could be nothing with the solid, unimaginative lines of the Douglas Building to block the view from Beacon Hill, and this type of design is the specialty of government architects.

So if the museum proposal is to be considered seriously, please, Mr. Chant, don't have the design carried out within your own department.

In fact, the city should insist that a design competition be held among all architects who wish to compete, just as was done—with fine results—for the new Simon Fraser University.

There's no reason to doubt that the technical problem of providing adequate parking hidden beneath the museum can be solved.

A legal snag could crop up. But Chief Justice Matthew Baillie Begbie, in a judgement handed down in 1894, ruled that Beacon Hill Park could be used for an aquarium. And isn't a museum an equally proper place "for the enjoyment and recreation of the public"?

So the city has nothing to lose by giving further consideration to any detailed plans which the government may present.

would dismiss as Anglo-Saxons. He is a pragmatic politician.

He has the strong support of liberal-intellectual organs like the Paris weekly newspaper L'Express, he has a good wartime resistance record and he has excelled as an administrator in his 10 years as mayor of the sun-drowsy, yet volatile, port city of Marseille.

He is surrounded by a dynamic "equipe" or team of ardent supporters, all set for the fray.

Defferre would end French pin-pricks against NATO, support the nuclear test-ban treaty, concentrate on political realities, discard a policy of grandeur built largely around nuisance value.

It remains to be seen whether he can whip the inchants left into anything like a serious threat to de Gaulle, who is almost as "institutional" as the Eiffel Tower. People may not like the look of it, but they would like to keep it around as a symbol.

Though almost unknown internationally and occasionally derided as "a socialist with a yacht," Defferre is by no means what the French call a man of straw. He has vigor and style.

It used to be said that if Britain and North America voted in French elections, victory would go to a man like Pierre Mendès-France, widely admired abroad but a declining figure at home.

In the same way Defferre will probably seem an attractive figure to those whom de Gaulle

Gaston the Would-Be Giant-Killer

Impossible Attempted

By ALAN HARVEY from London

The "Monneur X" of French politics is over the first barrier in a long, lonely and seemingly impossible campaign to dislodge President de Gaulle from the seat of the mighty.

Few experts give him much chance. He seeks to win the votes of the French left in the presidential elections that must be held before the end of 1965, and the French left is a notoriously hard team to drive in harness.

Besides, nearly everyone will tell you, General de Gaulle is unbeatable.

But Monsieur X—53-year-old Gaston Defferre, the Socialist mayor of Marseille—is going to have a try at the giant-killer task. He has surmounted his first big obstacle by reaching a compromise with the man who could have torpedoed him, Socialist Party Leader Guy Mollet.

During a Socialist congress, Mollet sought to ensure that Defferre as presidential candidate would be responsible to the Socialist party. Defferre

Millions at Stake

By IAN COULTER, from London

France is offering to sell Communist China a fleet of Caravelle jet airliners.

The offer is an attempt to get ahead of Britain's plane-makers in meeting expected orders worth $200,000,000 from Peking.

China's aviation authorities, intent on building up a large fleet of modern jet airliners, are on the verge of buying 10 Caravelle jets as the first step.

The most likely British contender for Chinese contracts is the Hawker Siddeley combine, makers of both the near-veteran Comet airliner and of the new Trident.

China is now being catapulted into operating international passenger jets partly for diplomatic and prestige reasons, but also because it will soon open a major civil air route to Pakistan.

Air Commodore Nur Khan, managing director of Pakistan International Airlines, confirmed the Chinese intention when he visited London last week. He said he thought the Chinese would require initially some 30 aircraft.

A purchase on this scale would mean, with full spares and servicing contracts, around $100,000,000.

Although France, with its initial Caravelle sale, is likely to be first, a considerable amount of business should go to Britain. For each Caravelle would be powered by two Rolls-Royce Avon engines.

VIEWPOINT

Who Needs Sleep?

By HARRY NELSON from Los Angeles

Scientists are beginning to suspect that sleep is possibly more habit than necessity, and that a properly conditioned person could get along with only an hour or two of sleep a night.

Some researchers suspect that sleep is a conditioned response acquired at a very early age and which persists throughout life.

It has always been assumed that sleep was merely the turning off of the system in the brain that keeps us awake—that sleep is only a passive state.

But work done at the University of California at Los Angeles brain research institute indicates that sleep is just as active as wakefulness and that a separate system controls it.

The concept that there are two opposing systems, each triggered into dominance by situations to which the brain becomes conditioned soon after birth, implies that it is possible to condition an individual in such a way that one system will be continually dominant.

In fact, researchers are now planning an experiment in which newborn animals will be "taught" to remain awake at all times.

Bridge Draws Protests

Westholme residents are protesting $50,000 temporary bridge being placed alongside Chemainus Bridge on Trans-Canada Highway as needless outlay, posing grave threats of spring floods. Senior bridge is due for modernization. Below, former North Cowichan councillor Jack Pinson, leader in protest, points to available detour 400 yards south of bridge which runs four-and-a-half miles and back to highway, with no need for heavy outlay of funds. — (Klaus Muentner photos)

Around the Island

New Rector Inducted For Island Parishes

PARKSVILLE — Archdeacon John Forth inducted Rev. Eric Blackstock as rector of the parishes of St. Anne's, French Creek, St. Mary's, Errington, and St. Edmund's, Parksville, at a recent impressive service held in St. Edmund's Anglican Church.

The sermon was given by Archdeacon Charles Wolff, rector of St. Luke's Cedar Hill, and reading from the scriptures was by Rev. Canon F. C. Austin of Port Alberni. Attending clergymen were Rev. H. Emery, Nanaimo, Rev. John Frith, Alberni, Canon T. D. Proctor, Campbell River, Rev. Trevor Williams, Campbell River, and Rev. Theo. Roberts, of Knox United Church, Parksville.

Following the service, a reception was held in the Parish Hall.

NANAIMO — City council has approved the school board's suggestion to move the crosswalk across Waddington at Strathmore to the other side of Strathmore, so that school buses, stopped at the crosswalk, will be less liable to accidents with passing E and N trains.

UCLEULET — Board of Ucleulet United Church elected Mrs. G. Irvine secretary and Mrs. J. Schmarz treasurer at the recent annual meeting.

Executive members named to the board included Gordon

Anderson, D. Burns, J. Murray, T. R. Wearing and Mrs. Robert Turner. A chairman will be elected later.

The board was advised of a grant of $500 from the MacMillan Family Trust fund, which will be used to help reduce the loan on the Ucleulet manse.

NANAIMO — Nanaimo Fish and Game Club, with other island fish and game clubs, will be sending a special rock for the fireplace to be built in the quarters of the Alberni Fish and Game Club.

The Alberni club has requested all island clubs to contribute rocks from their areas for their new stone fireplace.

PORT ALBERNI — Permits totalling $80,200 were issued by building inspector William Fraser in January.

Largest single project on the list was an apartment estimated to cost $84,000.

In January, 1963, total for building permits issued in the city was $70,473.

UCLEULET — Mrs. J. Ayton has been elected president of the Ucleulet Drama Club for the coming year.

Also elected were Miss Bonnie Batchelor, vice-president; Miss Gill Poole, secretary; Mrs. E. A. Welland, treasurer, and Ronald J. McLean, director.

NANAIMO — Vandals were busy in Bowen Park, Tuesday night. All the signs on the Rotary Trail were torn down. The signs, of varnished wood, were put up by the Rotary Club of Nanaimo and marked one of the most beautiful trails in the park. Park workers found the mutilated signs early Wednesday morning when they went to work.

CHEMAMINUS — The Chemainus Rotary Club is sponsoring a public speaking contest for high school students of District 67 (Ladysmith and Chemainus). Eliminations are taking place at present and three students from each school will compete in the finals on Tuesday, Feb. 26. Winner will be sent on an expense-paid trip to Ottawa, along with some 200 other students from across Canada. There they will be guests of the Ottawa Rotary Club, and will enjoy conducted tours of the House of Parli-ment, RCMP training barracks, the mint, and other points of interest in the capital.

NANAIMO — Oliver Cottam, 18, Nanaimo, was fined $22.50 by Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts, for being a minor in possession of liquor, in court Wednesday. Cottam was the driver of a vehicle which had liquor in it when stopped by RCMP.

Another minor, Matthew Charles Winkelman, Nanaimo, was fined $20 on a similar charge.

CHEMAMINUS — The Chemainus area is experiencing a very mild winter so far but precipitation has been heavy. Total rainfall for the month of January was 11.90 inches, according to the official recorder, George Row.

DUNCAN — Three juvenile boys, one from Shawinigan Lake, one from Edmonton and the third one from Vancouver, were put on a six-month probation period after they pleaded guilty in police court to a burglary at the Quamichan Scout Hall. Two other juvenile boys paid $10 each, one for operating a trailer without a licence and one for driving contrary to a restriction on his driver's licence.

PORT ALBERNI — Two men were killed in separate logging accidents last week near Tahsis on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, RCMP said Tuesday.

Leslie Percy Walls, 45, of Quamichan, was crushed by a cable at the Taylor Way logging operation at Moynah Bay on Mushatist Arm.

In the other accident, Robert Earl Evans, 31, of Zebalton, died when a guy line broke and a spar tree fell on him. The mishap occurred at a logging operation on Zebalton Island. Inquest into both deaths will be held in Tahsis Saturday.

Saves Life

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police said yesterday a funeral date saved the life of John Pagnam, 61.

He was found lying injured on the floor of his room by a relative who went there to take him to a funeral.

Pagnam was taken to hospital with a fractured hip. He told police he had been struck by a car the previous night.

Helped to Help Selves

Sheltered Workshop Over Hurdle

By MARGARET TREBETT
PORT ALBERNI — Arrow-smith Services, this district's sheltered workshop, is over the first hurdle and showing signs of becoming a permanent part of the community picture.

The third member has been accepted on the working staff, after serving a month's probation, and the three youths have earned their supervisor's commendation.

***
"They're good workers and they take pride in their work," said Mrs. Mary Fix, who has taken on the task of managing the shop for the Alberni Valley Association for Retarded Children.

"Our greatest need at the moment is work. We want more jobs for the boys now that we know what they can accomplish," she went on. When we visited the bright basement workshop in the Arrow-smith Kindergarten building, the three young fellows, Donald, Gerald and John, were cheerfully sanding down a set of kitchen chairs in preparation for painting. Considering the fact that they haven't had the opportunity to develop muscles in team sports, they were showing a good deal of vigor as they attacked the furniture with sandpaper. Mrs. Fix called a break, and they settled down for a few minutes' recreation with a jigsaw puzzle.

The shop went into operation late in October. The workers have attached labels, stuffed envelopes, folded circulars and collated exam papers. They have a project of treating and painting survey stakes and have already completed and stacked about 600 of them.

Two of the young retarded adults were former pupils of the school organized some years ago. The other has had no formal training but fits in well to make a team of happy workers.

Teachers who brought in sets of exam papers to be collated were agreeably surprised by the way the boys handled the job. Mrs. Fix reported, "They can accomplish much more than I had anticipated," she said.

***
The two originals, Donald and Gerald, have welcomed John as the newcomer. Mrs. Fix remarked that it is important to have a happy shop and, she said, there have been no problems, no clashes of personalities.

The workshop was organized with the aim of keeping young retarded adults gainfully employed and giving them the feeling that there is a place for them in the community.

While there has been some response to the appeal for work, there have been times when the boys, whose ages range from 18 to 22, have run out of projects. A spare time job dreamed up by the supervisor has produced a braided nylon door mat for the entrance to the shop.

***
The entire proceeds of jobs done by the boys are divided among the workers, while the association pays the supervisor's salary and operating costs. The first regular payday was a highlight in the lives of the boys, Mrs. Fix reported.

While soliciting work for the three members of the staff, the association is ready to add more workers to the crew and is inviting applications from other young retarded adults.

Mayor Pours Pool Cement

NANAIMO — Mayor Pete Maffeo poured the first yard of cement for the Kinsmen's swimming pool in Bowen Park, Wednesday.

Mayor Maffeo said he knew the effort that has to be put in a project of this kind.

He also thanked the Mayo Lumber Co., MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd., and the Ocean Cement Co. Ltd., for their contribution of materials.

Nanaimo Kinsmen's Club representatives were Reg. Glover, chairman of the pool committee, and Ron Hudson, president.

Also present were Harry Wipper, civic properties and recreation commission manager, and Jack Stephenson, civic properties commission superintendent who is in charge of the project.

Bill Dupree Redies Athena

Talk to Fisherman Get a Good Story

By DON GAIN

Talk to a fisherman and you'll get a good story. Take Bill Dupree, 40, who's working on his 40-foot trawler Athena at Fishermen's Wharf.

Bill's been fishing since 1955 and can't think of anything he'd rather do.

"It has its ups and downs," he said, "but you have your independence and it's all yours on the effort you put in."

TRACTOR OUTFIT

He tried his hand at logging and "running a custom tractor outfit," and took a course at an agricultural school.

"But fishing is the life for me," he said. "It's hard to picture it to anybody else but you either like the water or you don't. I like everything that goes with it, boats, navigation, the weather."

THE BIG BANK

In the fishing season you'll find him on La Perouse Bank, called the Big Bank, off the West Coast of the Island.

A shareholder in Ucluelet Fishing Co. along with 20 other boat owners, he takes his catches to the company's ice-house in Ucluelet.

His $14,000 boat will hold five tons of ice and an equal amount of fish, and "I can carry more than I've ever caught."

STAR'S NAME

Athena, built in Victoria by Brian Walker, is named for a star.

"You can see it with the naked eye," Bill said. "It's the foot of one of the twins, Castor and Pollux. It's an Arabic name. I dug through the star catalogue until I found a name I liked."

'HAPPILY SINGLE'

Bill, now gradually getting ready for coho and spring fishing season, says he is "happily single," lives with his father W. S. Dupree, an old China hand, at 4036 Metchosin Road. Bill was born in Hankow.

"Sometimes we worry when the fast new commercial freighters come humping through our fishing grounds," he said. "Our favorite anchoring ground is over a 30-fathom spot on the Big Bank and it's smack in the middle of the Great Circle route to the Orient."

Shop Burglar Scared Away

A patrolling constable scared a burglar away from King Auto Radio, 1816 Quadra, early Wednesday.

Const. Murray MacArthur was on routine patrol when he noticed the front door open at the radio shop. Other police picked up a suspect nearby. The suspect was released after questioning.

Red Here Soon

The national leader of the Communist Party in Canada, Leslie Morris, will speak at a public meeting in Williams Hall, 749 Broughton, at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Destroyer Returns Injured Petty Officer

A navy petty officer with a broken leg was rushed home from a training exercise off the West Coast yesterday.

X-rayed at HMCS Naden hospital was PO Raymond Gavin, 38, of 95 Cadillac, who broke his leg in a fall aboard the destroyer-escort HMCS Margaree.

The destroyer broke off exercises with HMCS Skeena and Saskatchewan and brought the injured man to HMC Dockyard.

COURTENAY—A 30-year-old man has pleaded guilty to four charges here including one of breaking and entering a home which was subsequently destroyed by fire.

John Hopton Twist, believed to be from Vancouver, pleaded not guilty to a fifth charge involving breaking and entering with intent to commit an indictable offence, assault.

The charges arose from incidents the morning of Jan. 28.

SIXTH CHARGE

A sixth charge has been laid in Victoria.

The charges involve theft of a taxi from Victoria; the alleged holdup of a woman and her children at knifepoint; the beating of another woman and theft of a blanket, towel, licence plates, a jacket, shotgun and groceries.

BODILY HARM

Twist pleaded guilty to assault causing bodily harm to Mrs. Wilma Mueller, clerk at the Riverside Hotel, who answered a call to Twist's room at 4 a.m. when he said someone was in the room. When she entered he beat her but she screamed and fled.

Mrs. Mueller suffered a broken nose, cuts and bruises. He also admitted to theft of a blanket and towel from the hotel.

Police made a search which ended when Twist's car was involved in a crash with a police car after an 80-mile-an-hour chase.

Police were aided in their search by the description of Twist and the car, given them by Mrs. Phyllis Pratt, of Marsden road, who alleged that Twist held her and her children at knifepoint from 6:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m., then left.

SAT IN HOUSE

She said that he sat in her house after gaining admission by saying he was a policeman. He made no demands but simply sat there drinking beer. He had a .22 rifle with him but did not use it.

He was subsequently charged with breaking and entering with intent to commit assault, a charge he denied.

TAXI STOLEN

Police said the car Twist was driving was a taxi stolen from Victoria.

Twist admitted breaking and entering Noble Harrigan's house at Minto and taking a jacket, shotgun and groceries. A passerby discovered the house completely ablaze but police were not sure if Twist started the fire accidentally or deliberately.

Twist faced Magistrate T. G. Ryan who remanded him until Feb. 12.

Was Framed Says Accused

VANCOUVER (CP)—Geoffrey Wing, 23 who claimed police framed him when they charged him with possession of stolen property, was sentenced to three years Wednesday by county court judge William Schultz.

Wing claimed that police put a gold sovereign in his pocket at the time of his arrest July 26. The coin was one of 700 stolen from the home of Angelo Branch when he and his wife were held up in the home July 21.

Victoria Woman Injured on Street

A 62-year-old woman was described as in fairly good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital yesterday after being injured in an accident Tuesday.

Mrs. Lillian Cameron, 1043 Clare, was walking across Fort near Davis when she was in collision with a car driven by Frank De Forrest, 2300 Bowker.

Lady Rose Missing Two Round Trips

FORT ALBERNI—Alberni Marine Transportation's motor vessel Lady Rose will be pulled out of service for two days this month for the annual steamship inspection.

Managing director John Mourufet said round trips to Ucluelet and Bamfield on Feb. 17 and 18 have been cancelled.

Road Dispute Tackled In Cowichan

NORTH COWICHAN—Council Wednesday formed a committee to study the pros and cons of an access road at the eastern end of Quamichan Lake, wanted by some taxpayers and opposed by others.

A petition signed by five people requests the opening of Henderson Road, and a delegation of three outlined to the council the disadvantages of the road opening.

Delegation spokesman Ron Gratian, living in the vicinity of the proposed road, said the objecting taxpayers do not want to deny the lake to anybody, but said that, besides being a costly project, the road could easily encourage hoodlums.

Mr. Gratian said the lake at its end does not offer any attraction for the general public—it is no good for swimming, fishing or duck hunting.

Council was advised that putting in a road and turning place for cars and probably parking space could be costly. The two councillors to study the situation are Dennis Hogan and George Whittaker.

Figures Not Final

Increased education cost will raise the mill rate in the Cowichan School District by 2.5, boosting the education rate to 24.5 mills.

In the Ladysmith school district part of the municipality the mill rate might climb a little more than one mill. Reeve Donald Morton emphasized these figures are not final.

Education cost for the Cowichan district, including a large part of North Cowichan, last year was $1,657,752. This year it is $1,914,013. The education bill in the Ladysmith district was $891,887 last year and is $991,999 this year.

Council will meet the trustees of both districts for budget discussions.

Bulldozer on List

Also approved was the 1964 revised equipment list which totals $49,800, with $20,000 for a bulldozer, $10,000 for a truck and another $10,000 for a tandem flatbed.

North Cowichan's contribution toward the library bill for Central Vancouver Island will be $18,067, after council approved the increase over the 1963 library bill, $15,582.

Councillor Mrs. Elaine Dobbyn, who recently attended the annual meeting of the Central Vancouver Island Library Association, told the council Duncan Library has one of the highest number of book borrowers in Canada, amounting to 3,292.

Councillor Mrs. Dobbyn was elected one of the trustees on the executive of the Library Association.

Paul Stone, who requested payment under the sheep protection claim for four ewes by marauding dogs, will be paid $106.

Council had questioned the high price per animal of $40, but District Agriculturist Ken Jameson said the estimated value was not too high considering the fact the ewes were about to lamb.

The sum to be paid is two-thirds of the total loss, in accordance with the sheep protection claim.

Chemical Fertilizers Are Essential Now

DUNCAN — With the advent of an early spring this year farmers are getting ready for a new cycle of growth and probably the most important first chore will be the application of fertilizer.

District agriculturist Ken Jameson, explaining the basic rules for this phase, says it is absolutely essential that grassland fertilizer should be applied in the spring as early as possible while adequate moisture is still in the ground.

Fertilizer on dry soil is useless. The recommended fertilizer for land in the Cowichan Valley, which consists mainly of grass and legumes, is 13-16-10 (nitrogen-super phosphate-potash).

It should be applied at a rate of 350 pounds an acre, Mr. Jameson said. On old stands which consist mainly of grass the recommended fertilizer is ammonium nitrate, 150 pounds an acre.

Anyone in doubt should contact the office of the district agriculturist at Duncan.

Another agricultural expert said that, for low lands with root crops such as potatoes, a lower content of nitrogen and more super-phosphate and potash is advisable.

He said another application of fertilizer later in the year is desirable when irrigation is used — to get the full benefit from irrigation in the drier months.

"There is definitely no harm in using fertilizers properly as recommended by research and industry," he said. "After all, all chemical fertilizers are based on natural elements."

Cowichan Valley area fertilizer sales have about doubled in the past 10 years, and present consumption is estimated at 800 tons a year.

The steady increase of chemical fertilizers use rises he explained, from greater demands for larger yields from the same acreage and insufficient supply of organic substances such as manure.

The increased use of chemical fertilizer also can be attributed to the arrival of Old Country farmers who have recognized the tremendous value many years ago, "through their long association with tilling of soil."

Next Tuesday the first field crop meeting will be held in Duncan at the Cowichan Exhibition Building at 1:30 p.m.

The new two-year course was requested by farmers who participated in a two-year soils course completed last September. Guest speaker will be Norman Putnam, field crop commissioner.

The course's 1964 schedule will include a general introduction to forage plants, demonstrating seedings, study of hay conditioners, field tour, analysis of forage clips and a report on feeding value of grass legume hay.

Next Thursday, Feb. 12, the first meeting of the Saanich Soils Club will be held in the Farmers' Pavilion on the Saanichton Experimental Farm, at 1:30 p.m.

RETARDED TO HAVE SCHOOL HEALTH MINISTER DECLARES

Beautiful Harbor Envisioned

By JACK FREY

VICTORIA MLA J. Donald Smith unfolded a proposal yesterday for a Victoria waterfront complex which would house a provincial museum, a maritime museum, the provincial archives and the old RCMP vessel St. Roch which traversed the Northwest Passage.

Speaking to the legislature, he said the CPR property northwest of the legislature would be the logical location for such a development which, coupled with improvement of the Causeway area, would make the Inner Harbor "the most beautiful harbor in the world."

He disagreed with a suggestion by Works Minister Chant that the museum be built in Beacon Hill Park. "I would certainly recommend very lovely Beacon Hill Park for this museum," said Mr. Smith.

A museum in the park would "mar the beauty" of the park, he added.

The waterfront museum could be completed by 1967, in time for the Confederation centenary. One of its first exhibits should be the historic St. Roch.

The boat now is in Vancouver where it is "deteriorating year after year," and Vancouver city council apparently is disinterested in preserving it, said the Social M.L.A.

There would be plenty of space for parking near the CPR site, and a bridge probably will be built between James Bay and Victoria West sometime in the future making it easier to reach the new waterfront museum complex, Mr. Smith said.

The latest proposal for providing the B.C. Maritime Museum in Esquimalt with larger, downtown quarters, is for a move into the old law courts building in Bastion Square. This plan is under active consideration.

Tories Reject John D Plea

OTTAWA (CP)—The Progressive Conservatives wound up their annual convention Wednesday after a day-long debate on party policy during which they turned their back on tax reductions.

Only a handful of the 3,353 persons who registered for the 3½-day gathering were on hand in the 775-seat convention hall for the adjournment.

FLOOS REVOLT

But earlier in the day sparks erupted when George Nowlan, former finance minister, led a revolt from the floor against a suggestion that the party go on record as advocating tax cuts.

Mr. Nowlan and two other former cabinet ministers spearheaded a successful attack on tax-cut plans submitted to the party's annual meeting by the resolutions committee.

The committee's spokesman, E. A. Goodman, Toronto, flatly accepted a set of Nowlan charges and declared another, proposed by Senator Wallace McCutcheon, former trade minister, adopted after a show-of-hands vote.

The action came the day after party leader John Diefenbaker launched a plea for tax cuts in a major address to the convention.

Speaking of future policy, Mr. Diefenbaker told the convention Tuesday the party "should pursue the expansion of development."

HAVE TO ACT

"Today that expansion requires reductions of taxation because of what is happening in the United States. If the Johnson administration reduces taxes, we will have to take action in that regard. Otherwise we will not be competitive."

His argument was referred to directly in the debate on the proposed tax-cut program by professional economist Robert Clarke who argued U.S. cuts would not make American manufacturers more competitive with Canadians.

While the party's economic

Mothers Fear Heathman

VERNON (CP)—Mrs. Warren McIntyre, mother of three, launched a petition Wednesday protesting the proposed release of confessed child-slayer Charles Heathman from Esquimalt.

She said response to the petition has been "almost 100 per cent" and a special door-to-door canvass for signatures is planned tonight.

"Most of the women I've spoken to... are genuinely concerned about the safety of their children," she said.

Cypriots Fight Again

NICOSIA (Reuters)—Turkish Cypriot officials reported renewed fighting Wednesday in the village of Ktima, near Paphos, resulting in the death of one Greek-Cypriot.

The officials said two Turkish and two Greek-Cypriots were wounded in the clash before British troops moved into the area.

A British military spokesman said a neutral zone had been set up in the village but the situation there was still "very, very tense."

SOME HOSTAGES

Unconfirmed reports reaching truce headquarters here said 30 Turkish and 15 Greek-Cypriots were reported missing or taken hostage Wednesday.

The apparent violation of the cease-fire agreement arranged Christmas Eve came as United States women and children were evacuated from this tense Mediterranean island.

On another front, developments were awaited on a proposed NATO peace-keeping force for the divided republic.

Third Yard Shut Today

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

Further talks are to be held today in Vancouver in hopes of ending the B.C. shipyard strike, which will spread to Burrard Drydock during the day.

Representatives of the shipyards and 22 unions met in Vancouver all day yesterday with deputy labor minister William Sands. A further meeting was scheduled for 3 p.m. today.

600 AT BURRARD

Pickets were expected to be set up at Burrard at 7 a.m., when 600 Burrard employees were to join 1,400 already on strike at VMD and Yarrow's here. (See picture, Page 13.)

The strike at the Victoria yards began at 7 a.m. yesterday.

William Stewart of the Marine Workers and Boiler-makers Industrial Union (M.B.I.U.) said in Vancouver: "It looks as if we'll be out in the morning at Burrard."

Mr. Sands said there had been no specific agreement at yesterday's meeting but, "I have a feeling that progress has been achieved today."

Court Believes Blind Father, Not Policemen

CALGARY (CP)—A 64-year-old blind man who helped his two sons eject a policeman from their home Aug. 12 had his $50 fine for assault quashed by the Alberta Supreme Court appeals division Wednesday.

Marshall Servonnet's sons, Marshall Joseph and Marcelle, had three-month sentences for assault reduced to three weeks they had spent in custody.

Mr. Justice M. M. Porter, claiming all three charges should be quashed, dissented from the majority decision by two other justices.

He said the policeman, Constable Wilf Kruger "entered the home without a warrant and thus had no right being there."

"We must uphold a man's right to privacy in his own home," he said, adding the incident was no credit to anyone, "especially the police."

Colquitz Site Will Be Used

By TERRY HAMMOND

A provincial school for retarded children will be built on the grounds of the former Colquitz mental hospital, Health Minister Martin announced yesterday.

He made the announcement in a speech to the legislature and elaborated later in an interview.

The school will be patterned on Woodlands, the provincial home for the retarded in New Westminster.

Mr. Martin said planning for the institution will start as soon as the government's mental hospitals design group has completed plans for the mental health centre to be built adjacent to Royal Jubilee Hospital.

HEAVY FIRE

The minister's announcement came at a time when his department is under heavy fire for having failed to keep pace with the need for accommodation of the mentally retarded. He said the Colquitz home would be smaller than the 1,400-bed Woodlands home but couldn't say how much smaller.

Snake Pit Heart Warmer

In 1936 Leo Nimsch (NDP—Cranbrook) borrowed the title from a once-famous book on insane asylum life and branded the Colquitz mental home a "snake pit." Yesterday Mr. Martin told the legislature how happy he was to have finally closed the Colquitz institution.

Canada in Fight Mike Tells U.S.

NEW YORK (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson Wednesday night told a 1,200-member New York audience—all of them concerned with mental health—that important developments are occurring in Canada in the fight against retardation.

"We, like you, are spurred by the prospect of achieving 95 per-cent success in giving to the retarded, useful community lives," Pearson was speaking to the annual awards dinner of the Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr. Foundation, an organization established in 1946 to help in the battle against mental retardation. He referred to the 10 provincial associations for retarded children and the plans of each province to undertake a major research project for Canada's Centenary. The volunteers would be assisted by governments, industry, universities and foundations.

Coroner Vs. Doctors

Police Seek Hospital-Death Evidence

TORONTO (CP)—Police of the Metropolitan Toronto homicide squad began gathering evidence Wednesday for a coroner's inquest into the death of a woman in hospital here, last November 18, days after an operation. An autopsy had revealed a surgical clamp in her abdomen.

Coroner Dr. Gerald Blanchet, ordered by Ontario Attorney-General Fred Cass to hold the inquest, said the police were called in because of their interview methods. It did not suggest foul play.

The attorney-general ordered the inquest into the death of Patricia Morgan, 32, a cancer patient, in Toronto East General Hospital after a public demand for it by Dr. Morton Shulman, chief coroner, who has been pushing investigations into deaths in hospitals here.

Dr. Shulman, appointed last year, has charged interference by members of the medical profession and his government superiors and has demanded a public inquiry into the coroner's inquest system.

Mrs. Morgan's death came to light last week after a sister asked Dr. Shulman about it. The hospital's board of governors also has launched an investigation into her death and operating-room procedures.

Dr. Morton disclosed that the surgical instrument had been left in the woman's abdomen after one doctor had started to operate on her, had been called away and was replaced by another surgeon.

Dr. Kenneth A. Brown, 65, who started the operation, said he has not been permitted to use facilities of the East General Hospital since the operation.

Dr. Brown said he had operated on Mrs. Morgan three months earlier to remove a cancerous condition in her stomach and intestines and performed the Oct. 18 operation for a "second look."

He said he started the operation but did not finish it. He said he was interrupted by a senior official of the hospital and the operation was completed by another doctor. The name of the second doctor has not been disclosed.

There has been no public explanation of the interruption. Dr. Shulman said he understood the autopsy showed no cancer in the body, though the death certificate signed by Dr.

Brown gave cancer of the stomach and acute intestinal obstruction as the cause of death.

Dr. Shulman said Dr. Stewart Penny, the hospital pathologist who conducted the autopsy, told him the obstruction referred to in his report was the clamp. The instrument is a forceps that doubles as a clamp.

Dr. Brown said he had not been shown a copy of the autopsy report and had made out the death certificate as accurately as he could on the basis of information available to him.

Dr. Shulman said the death had not been reported to him officially and Dr. H. B. Cotnam, supervising coroner for Ontario, said "it looks as if this was a reportable death and someone is certainly at fault in not reporting it."
